It is probably desirable, on the whole, that intelligent feudal industry should govern until the people develop signs of intelligent thinking plus will power.

Ohio Wets Take Repeal Fight to People

REFERENDUM PETITIONS TO BE CIRCULATED

Turned Down in Legislature, Ohio Wet Leaders Will Appeal to Citizens.

ALL BILLS WITHDRAWN

Senator Ackerman Changes Tactics After Nippert Proposal Is Defeated.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 4—State Senator Joseph Ackerman of Cleveland today decided to abandon all his efforts to have the Ohio prohibition laws taken from the constitution by legislative action. He announced he would carry his fight direct to the people with a petition for a referendum on the state dry laws next November.

Senator Ackerman said the petitions would be circulated at once throughout the state and that he was assured of 300,000 signatures within 60 days. Associated with Ackerman on a committee to circulate the petitions is former Federal Judge William L. Day and Colonel Henry G. Tremmell of Cleveland. The form of the referendum petition has been approved by the attorney general's office, Ackerman said.

Cause of Decision

The senator decided to drop his anti-prohibition activities in the legislature after the Nippert resolution, for repeal of the state dry laws, was overwhelmingly defeated in the house, Tuesday.

Senator Ackerman said he would seek permission of the senate to withdraw the following bills and resolution he now has before the senate temperance committee.

1—Repeal of the Crabbe act, the state dry enforcement law.

2—Repeal of the Miller act, creating the state prohibition department.

3—Repeal of the Dow-Aiken law imposing a fee of $1,000 on owners of property where liquor is sold illegally.

4—Repeal of the act under which "Temperance day" is observed in the schools.

Also withdrawal of his resolution which contained subject matter similar to the Nippert resolution.

Ackerman said his reason for initiating the referendum was that members of the legislature "don't vote the way they drink." He said that to press for passage his bills

MRS. BENNETT TELLS 'BRIDGE DEATH' STORY

Husband Killed When Gun Is Accidentally Discharged, She Says.

By The Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 4—Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett, accused "bridge quarrel" slayer, took the stand today and described the shooting of her husband, John G. Bennett as accidental. Her recital of the tragic end of their bridge game was halted when the witness was overcome by emotion.

Speaking in a low voice, Mrs. Bennett began her testimony with the bridge game which the state contends led to Bennett's death. As she recounted her version of the events climaxed by the tragedy, Mrs. Bennett's voice rose, she became extremely nervous, finally breaking down when she told of firing the bullets which killed her husband.

Asked what, if anything her husband did to her when they quarreled over their bridge playing, Mrs. Bennett replied:

"He slapped me."

"Hard or easy blows?"

"Hard," the witness replied.

Mrs. Bennett said her husband then declared his intention of beginning a business trip that night instead of in the morning as previously planned. She said she went to talk to him in a living room closet where he was reaching for his bag.

"I just thought it would make him feel better, to ask him not to go and to apologize to our guests. He told me to get his gun."

The witness said she started through the door and met Mr. Bennett.

"He was running toward me. When he got to me he grabbed hold of me. He caught my arm and twisted it. Somehow in the scuffle the gun discharged. I don't know how it happened—but that's what happened."

Former Senator Reed, attorney for the defendant, announced the defense would rest.

CAPTURE THIRD GANG MEMBER

Toledo Police Seize Escaped "Lookout Man" in Findlay Robbery.

TWO OTHERS SHOT DOWN

Fusillade of Bullets Greets Attempted Looting of Storage House.

By International News Service.

FINDLAY, O., March 4—Within only a few hours after two would-be robbers were shot and killed as they attempted to rob the A. E. Dorsey grocery warehouse here last night, a third alleged member of the gang, who escaped during the melee, was captured today and returned here by Chief of Police Frank Grant and Sheriff O. E. Willsford.

Seized in Toledo, where he was traced through an automobile which he left abandoned after police trapped his two companions and killed them with a fusillade of bullets, Fred Baker, 32, confessed to being the "lookout man" for the burglar trio, police said.

Brother Also Held

Ralph Baker, said to be a brother of Fred, was also taken into custody by authorities. It was his car police said, that the would-be robbers used in their attempt to plunder the grocery warehouse.

Chester Pawlaczy, 30, of Seattle, Wash., and an unidentified man, believed to be from Detroit, were slain as they attempted to enter the warehouse by a hail of bullets from two machine guns in the hands of police who had been guarding the place as a result of previous attempts at robbery.

Confessing to his participation in the robbery, according to police, Baker said he had been stationed on the outside as the "lookout man." When he heard the bullet shots from within the warehouse, he leaped into his car and started to speed away. In his excitement, however, he ran the machine into a coal heap.

Abandoning his car, according to the alleged story to authorities, Baker fled on foot and finally "thumbed" his way into Toledo.

Father Breaks Down

Baker's father was responsible for the confession, Grant said. The parent became confused under questioning and finally admitted that he and his son had "trumped up" an alibi, the police chief said.

Baker denied knowledge of the identity of his companions. He said he knew them only slightly. Pawlaczy was identified by a night watchman in a country market store near here, who said the man entered the store recently and robbed it of about $40.

Vermont Voters Stage Revolt in Primary Poll

By The Associated Press.

MONTPELIER, Vt., March 4—Conservative Vermont awoke today from a minor revolution in politics. She was still Republican, but she had turned against her best known leaders by nominating Warren R. Austin, 54, for the United States senate.

Austin has still to defeat Stephen Driscoll of St. Albans, the Democratic nominee, later this month, but he was a good as elected yesterday when he won the Republican primary race from Senator Frank C. Partridge by 43,381 votes to 35,436.

Partridge was appointed to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Senator Frank L. Greene.

MIDTERM FINDS HOOVER MARKED BY BATTLE BUT PHYSICALLY FIT

Retains Strength Through Two Strenuous Years as Nation's Pilot.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 4—Herbert Hoover has reached midvoyage of his term as pilot of the ship of state with a face harrowed and hair whitened by the storms that lay behind.

He was pronounced, however, physically more fit than when he shouldered responsibilties of the presidency two years ago.

Athwart the course he charted in advance for that voyage, two great disasters thrust themselves, drouth and worldwide economic depression.

HERBERT HOOVER

From heights of prosperity never before attained, the nation fell into depths of distress rarely reached before in its history.

It still remained for the stocky, wide-shouldered man in the White House to point a way of escape as he turned that two-year corner of his term.

OVERSHADOWING those first two years lay the inability of the President and the senate to agree without bitter exchanges on programs of relief for drouth-stricken farmers, for depressed industry, for an army of unemployed greater than the American forces mobilized for the World war, for war veterans caught in the depression maelstrom.

In the closing hours of the 71st congress the President saw both senate and house, the latter up to then his staunch ally, ignore by Accident Occurs at Caledonia Crossing Early This Morning.

S. W. Truman of South Prospect street is unconscious in City hospital and Miss Anna Weichold of 123 Selby court is recovering from bruises and cuts sustained when the car they were in struck a railroad signal block in Caledonia this morning.

It is feared Truman's skull may be fractured. He still was unconscious at noon today.

Truman was knocked unconscious and suffered cuts about his face and head and leg wounds. Miss Weichold was bruised and cut, but was not seriously injured. The head-on collision wrecked the bumper, fenders and windshield of the sedan which belongs to Miss Weichold.

Dr. H. A. Skidmore was called and administered treatment until later this morning when Mr. Truman was brought to City hospital in the Timson ambulance.

The sedan was towed to the Hill garage in Caledonia.

SULZMANN REPORTS 'AKRON MARY' FOUND

Long-Sought Blond in Potter Murder Case "Somewhere in Ohio," Sheriff Says.

By International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., March 4—"Akron Mary" Outland Woodfield blond sweetheart of "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, for whom police have been searching for nearly four weeks for questioning in connection with the murder of William E. Potter, slain Cleveland councilman, has been found.

That assertion was made today by Sheriff John M. Sulzmann, who has been heading the county search for the elusive girl.

Sheriff Sulzmann said that "Akron Mary," was "somewhere in Ohio" but that he had not talked to her.

She is being held under cover by some of Hymies friends because of her fear that she would be "put on the spot" by enemies in the underworld.

The girl will be brought here for Martin's trials on charges of first degree murder in connection with the killing of Potter, Sulzmann said.

"Mary is coming to the trial as a defense witness," the sheriff stated. Martin will go on trial March 23.

Next to Martin himself, "Akron Mary" is regarded by investigators as the most important figure in the murder case. Police believe she will be able to throw some light on the mysterious circumstances surrounding the slaying of the former councilman.

Discovery of the girl ended a search which was started when Martin was arrested in Pittsburgh for questioning in connection with the murder. The search extended into five states.

END OF STATE BLUE LAW APPEARS LIKELY

Marshall Bill To Repeal Aged Statute Encounters No Opposition.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., March 4—Ohio's antiquated blue law barring Sunday movies, already openly violated in 71 counties, today apparently was about to be tossed into the legislative ash heap.

Hearing no objection against the Marshall bill giving Sunday movies the same status as Sunday baseball at a hearing last night, the state senate judiciary committee today was prepared to approve the measure and recommend its passage.

Anticipated ministerial association opposition from New Philadelphia, Portsmouth and other cities which have been the scenes of recent blue law fights having failed to appear, supporters of the bill declared they were confident of its adoption in both houses. Not a single protest was voiced against the Marshall bill last night.

In a short introductory talk, Senator Marshall said the existing law "is 90 per cent violated," adding any law violated to such an extent has no place on the statute books.

Local ordinances may be passed to prevent Sunday movies where it is shown that the community is desirous of such action if the the new proposal is enacted into law, Senator Marshall said

DAUGHERTY CASE IN JURY'S HANDS

Deliberations in Ohio Banker's Fate Begun at Noon Today.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON C. H., O., March 4—The case of Mal S. Daugherty, president of the defunct Ohio State bank, charged with misusing funds of the bank, was given to a jury in Fayette county common pleas court here at 11:59 a. m. today.

Instead of recessing for lunch, Judge Bell ordered the jury taken to the room where it began deliberation.

The defense waived its right to present a final argument.

After Prosecutor Norman McLean had delivered his final summing up, requiring an hour, defense counsel Ray Maddux said he believed the jury could decide the case without any argument by the defense.

Judge Charles S. Bell then ordered a short recess, after which he submitted his charge to the jury in writing.

Judge's Instructions

Judge Bell instructed the jury it must determine three points in its deliberations:

First—Whether the Perrill transaction was part of a scheme of the defendant to use the bank's money and credit for his own personal gain.

Second—Whether the Perrill transaction was an indirect loan of the bank's money, obtained by means of papers upon which the defendant had procured Perrill's signatures.

Third—Whether the transaction was a loan made by the bank in good faith to Perrill.

The judge then explained the five counts in the indictment, charging the jury that if the defendant was

STATE CALLS 5 WITNESSES; DEATH ASKED

First Testimony Introduced in Trial of Sheriff Davenport's Slaying.

DEPUTY TAKES STAND

Two Motions Against Opening Statement, Indictment Overruled.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, O., March 4—The state today began weaving its web of evidence with which it hopes to send Walter Ralls, 31-year-old Crestline Negro, to the electric chair for the slaying of Sheriff George Davenport Jan. 23.

Five witnesses were placed on the stand after two motions, filed by Louis Kreiter, defense attorney, against the opening arguments of Prosecutor J. D. Sears and the indictment charging first degree murder, were overruled by Judge Clarence Ahl.

In overruling the motion Judge Ahl said that according to the new statutes specific language is not required in indictments.

The jury was taken into the courtroom at 9:30 this morning when Kreiter made his statement for Ralls. He did not outline what he expected to prove and used but two sentences for his talk. He said, "The defendant has filed a plea of not guilty. He is not guilty of the charge in the indictment."

Vogle First Witness

Fred Vogle was the first state witness to testify. He told of the theft of chickens from his farm the night of Jan. 22. He said he followed the tracks made by two men from the chicken coop to the McCumber poultry house at Crestline. Upon talking to McCumber, the latter said that he had purchased the chickens from Walter Ralls.

McCumber told the jury that he purchased the chickens from Walter. He said he suspected they were stolen but upon advice from the Crestline marshal he paid for them. The cancelled check was introduced as the first state exhibit.

Vogel's testimony was verified by Deputy Sheriff Otto Steiger, who investigated the chicken theft. His testimony told of his attempts to find Walter Ralls the day of Jan. 23 and the events which led up to the attempt to arrest Walter at the Elijah Ralls home that night.

He said that the county officials while talking to Crestline police had received a telephone call saying that Walter was at the Elijah Ralls home. He said the group of county officers along with Crestline policemen surrounded the Ralls home while Sheriff Davenport went in to arrest Walter.

Get No Response

After knocking at the door, Steiger said, no answer was received for several minutes. Members of the party flashed lights on the house and saw the trio, Walter, Elijah and Blanton, in an upstairs window. A few minutes later the door was opened and the sheriff entered.

Steiger testified that a short time after the sheriff went into the house a shotgun shot was heard. Members of the party stationed outside rushed for the house and before they entered a second shot, one from a revolver, was heard.

Events that followed, including the discovery of guns, ammunition and an empty shotgun shell were related in the testimony. He then told of the statement made by Ralls after being placed in the county jail.

The statement was then introduced into the court records by Prosecutor Sears. The statement follows:

"My name is Walter Ralls, I live in Crestline, Ohio, and I am 31 years old. On Thursday, Jan. 22, Blanton Ralls, my nephew, and I planned to steal some chickens

HUNTSVILLE BANK SCENE OF HOLDUP

Lone Bandit Stages Robbery in Logan County, Gets Over $1,200.

By United Press

BELLEFONTAINE, O., March 4—A robber, who worked alone, escaped with between $1,100 and $1,200 after robbing the State Bank of Huntsville, Logan county, near here, and forcing W. F. Myers, the cashier, into the vault.

It was the second time within three years the bank had been robbed. Three men were convicted for the first robbery.

Myers turned on the burglar alarm after the robber left the bank, but citizens who responded to the alarm lost track of the man's automobile.

TRUCE CLOSES GANDHI FIGHT

Truce Signed by Indian Leader and Viceroy Irwin Today.

ENDS PROLONGED PARLEY

National Cooperation in Plan for India's Dominion Status Assured.

(Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Press)

NEW DELHI, India, March 4—Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader and Viceroy Lord Irwin at high noon today signed a truce which ends the Nationalist civil disobedience campaign and secures Nationalist cooperation in working out a qualified dominion status for India.

The truce culminated negotiations of weeks which reached fulfillment in an agreement at 1:30 a. m. Shortly afterward Gandhi left the viceregal palace in a drenching rain to inform the Nationalist working committee at old Delhi.

Gets Needed Rest

While the committee voted unanimous approval of the terms, Gandhi curled up on a straw mat at the side of the room and went to sleep.

In return for abandonment of the civil disobedience campaign, which the Nationalists inaugurated a year ago in an effort to gain independence from Great Britain, Gandhi wrested from the viceroy an amnesty for all political prisoners held for non-violent offenses, the right of those residing on the seashore to make their own salt, and adjustments regarding the return of property confiscated for non-payment of taxes.

The agreement recognizes that the boycott, which is not punishable under the normal laws of India, will be directed against foreign goods, not necessarily British products, with the objects of promoting native Indian industries. All extraordinary laws promulgated to deal

Truth at Last

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., March 4—Paul Y. Anderson, who covers Washington for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, is one of the keenest and most fearless political writers in Washington, and there is where all the best ones are.

He is the young fellow that, during a Senate investigation, suggested one question to the committee to ask the witness, and it unearthed oil from one end of Pennsylvania Avenue to the other.

Well, Paul paid me a compliment a day or so ago that I am really proud of. It was in regard to the Republican fear of an increased income tax. Here it is:

"Thank the Lord, after all these years, you have finally said something true. Keep on another ten years and you may say something funny."

Yours,

ONE MAN TIES UP BUSINESS IN FINAL HOURS

Senator Thomas Makes Futile Attempt To Get Oil Inquiry Vote.

SPEAKS UNCEASINGLY

Conflict Marking Entire Session of Congress Continues to Adjournment.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 4—The seventy-first congress adjourned today amidst a tension reminiscent of the most exciting days of its two years.

The contentious spirit that has swept the senate from the start prevailed to the end, with a filibuster tying up all activity in the closing hours.

The house passed the $20,800,000 hospitalization bill before yielding to the farewell ceremonies which marked the end of official life for more than 40 Republican members. President Hoover's signature makes it law.

President Signs Bills

With his cabinet, he went to the capital in the final hour to sign some last-minute bills and to say goodbye to the leaders. He remained in the President's room just outside the senate chamber, where his policies have encountered persistent opposition from a dominant coalition of Republican independents and Democrats.

The galleries were packed from early morning, when both the senate and house reassembled.

TWO-YEAR HOOVER RECORD IN BRIEF

March 4, 1929—Inaugurated President.

June, 1929—Signed farm relief bill.

July, 1929 — Kellogg-Briand peace pact declared in effect.

October, 1929—Met Premier MacDonald and planned London naval conference.

November, 1929—Conferred with leaders of industry and finance on stabilization of business.

December, 1929 — Signed French war debt agreement.

February, 1930 — Named Charles E. Hughes, chief justice.

May, 1930—Parker nomination for supreme court rejected by senate.

May, 1930—Vetoed Spanish war pension bill, later repassed over veto by congress.

June, 1930—Signed Hawley-Smoot tariff.

July, 1930—Signed London naval treaty.

February, 1931 — Signed drouth relief bill.

February 1931—Vetoed veterans bonus bill.

March 3—Vetoed Muscle Shoals bill.

March 4, 1931 — Halfway point of administration.

The tall, white-haired Senator Thomas, Oklahoma Democrat, held the floor in the senate in a stubborn but futile attempt to obtain a vote on a resolution for an inquiry of the oil industry. He wanted an embargo on oil importations.

Promptly at noon Vice President Curtis and Speaker Longworth let fall their gavels in the senate and house, respectively, in obedience to the constitutional mandate.

Fund Provided

After accepting the senate hospital bill, in place of its own, the house approved an immediate appropriation of $5,000,000 to start construction. Senate passage followed quickly.

The unyielding Thomas filibuster killed all pending legislation including the maternity aid act, the Jenkins bill for a 90 per cent cut in immigration for two years, a batch of nominations, including that of Representative Elliott, Republican of Indiana, to be assistant comptroller general, and the Vestal copyright measure.

The fall of Vice President Curtis' gavel cut the Thomas speech short.

He had spoken unceasingly through the final three-hour session.

Chief Accomplishments

The short session, concluding today marked by great bitterness between the senate and the President, accomplished principally legislation to aid the unemployed and sufferers from last year's drouth. The treasury was opened for $65,000,000 in loans to the farmers of drouth states; approximately $300,000,000 for public improvements to stimulate employment, and an undetermined, but higher outlay for loans to World war veterans. The latter became law through the overwhelming rejection of President Hoover's veto.

Viewed as a whole, the almost constant session of the Seventy-first congress yielded as their principal legislation a general upward revision of the tariff and establishment of the federal farm board. As it ended, the congress left deep

City Will Fight Removal of Railroad Shop Department

DEED TERMS ARE UPHELD

Council Says Shops Must Either Stay or Railroad Forfeit Property.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, March 4—The city of Bucyrus will leave no stone unturned to and go the limit to hold the New York Central railroad to abide by a deed granted 52 years ago which provides that Bucyrus should continue indefinitely as the main repair headquarters of the line or the railroad company forfeit the deed to the property on which the shops now stand with its equipment, was indicated at the regular meeting of the city council Tuesday night.

First definite action was taken by the council last night upon recommendation of Mayor Arthur Schuler and of the finance committee.

Action taken last night consisted in the adoption of a resolution authorizing the City Solicitor to file an injunction against the removal of the heavy repair department from the city or to take any other legal action necessary to hold the company to the terms of their deed executed in 1880.

City Solicitor Schaber indicated that he would attempt to confer with L. S. Emery, general manager of Columbus, today, to acquaint him with the action taken by council.

Whether the city will have the support of the courts in their stand against the railroad was problematical. Solicitor Schaber indicated that in some instances in the state has given conflicting rulings in similar cases.

Attorney Schaber revealed that he had placed in the mails Monday a letter addressed to Emery inviting him to attend last night's meeting of council and also informing him that in behalf of the city he was lodging a protest to the contemplated move. Mr. Emery, however did not attend.

That the removal of the heavy repair shop is only the first step in the discarding of the city as a terminal has been expressed by city officials.

CLUB BACKS SCHOOL HEADS

Galion Kiwanis Club Passes Resolution Approving Board's Action.

GALION, March 4—A. M. Howard of the Columbus office of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. was the speaker Tuesday at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club which was held at the First Reformed church. A movie film showing the production of natural gas by the digging of wells and the laying of pipe lines was shown.

D. G. Strother was in charge of the meeting and also provided Miss LaDonna Helby who rendered a group of vocal solos with Miss Harriet Wisterman as her accompanist.

During the business session the following resolution to the school board was read and passed without a dissenting vote:

"Resolved that in recognition of the splendid progress of our educational system with its modern standards and its present supervision we wish to commend the board of education for its constructive services to our community.

"We are further convinced that this board which has been duly elected by the voters, is competent to conduct the affairs of its office in a manner that will result in the greatest good to the greatest number.

"We therefore subscribe our support to the board and extend them our good wishes."

One may like to be indifferent to the fact that he does not know and even not want to know.

TO ENCOURAGE SHOP EXPANSION IN CITY

Bucyrus Council Will Favor Application of Company for Permission To Build Spur.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, March 4—Future expansion of the W. A. Riddell Machine Co. is to be encouraged and it is practically certain that the company will remain in the city, contrary to reported rumors afloat in the city during the past several weeks, through action taken by the city council Tuesday night.

Council favored the granting of permission to the company to place a spur track on East Warren street, from the shop to the Short Line Pennsylvania railroad tracks, four blocks east, which the company has been endeavoring to obtain for several years.

No formal request had been filed with council as yet for the permission to lay the track and operate cars for shipping the heavy machinery manufactured by the company, but report was made by George Ryan, chairman of the platting committee, that the situation was gone over with shop officials with a view of learning the sentiment of council.

Present plans for the spur call for a track to be laid on Warren street on which gasoline or electric power drawn cars can be used in the transportation to and from the shop and the railroad of materials and machinery. Present plans also call for the erection of cranes over Warren street for loading and unloading purposes.

The council body, in further consideration of Bucyrus manufacture and business concerns, went on record as opposed to granting of a permanent franchise to the bus line now operating between Galion and Bucyrus as long as there is a possibility that the street car service might be renewed. The electric freight service between Bucyrus and Cleveland is the only through freight service connecting Cleveland with Bucyrus. The solicitor was instructed by council to mail a formal protest to the utilities commission before whom the application for the franchise is scheduled to be heard next week.

Man Flies Across Continent in 29 Hours To Visit Ill Mother

KENTON, March 4—Henry Carmean of Oakland, Calif., who arrived here early this morning after speeding across the nation in 28½ hours, has nothing but praise for executive officials of the country's great carrier systems.

He was called to Hardin county by the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. E. Carmean of West of Kenton and left his home city at 10:45 p. m. Sunday, arriving here at 3:15 Tuesday to find the condition of his mother somewhat improved. He will remain for a few days' visit.

A beautiful moonlight ride across the Rockies in a tri-motored cabin plane of the Boeing system ended in Chicago last night. Mr. Carmean immediately attempted to make railway connections for Kenton and was told that the next train, the Chicago to New York limited on the Chicago and Erie railroad, did not stop in Kenton.

However, through the courtesy of John W. McGovern, passenger agent for the road, arrangements were made to stop the limited and allow Mr. Carmean to alight in Kenton. He dropped off here after a 2,700-mile trip just 28½ hours from the time he had left Oakland, Calif.

LEGALITY OF BONDS PROBED

Technicality May Cause Postponement of School Building Program.

Special to The Star.

MT. GILEAD, March 4—A technicality in advertising the election may invalidate the $30,000 bond issue passed in Chester township last fall. The bond issue which was voted on to be used for the erection of an addition to the school building there was approved by an overwhelming majority.

Contractors' bids on the addition were to be opened Thursday and construction started at once so that the building would be ready for use when school opens in the fall this year.

When the notice of the election was published in the weeks prior to the election the tax rate and the maturing dates of the bonds were omitted from the notice until two weeks before the election. This error of the school officials in preparing the notice may invalidate the entire bond issue unless some solution is found.

A friendly suit may be instituted in the common pleas court to get a ruling on the validity of the issue. If approved by the court, the delay may, school officials state, make it impossible to finish the construction work by September. It is estimated that two months would be required to get the case at issue in the court.

MRS. HOOVER CUTS RED TAPE TO EASE STRAIN OF ROLE AS NATION'S FIRST LADY

The beginning of her third year in the White House finds Mrs. Herbert Hoover in much better health than she had a year ago. A recent portrait of her is shown at right, and at left she is shown with the President in her role as First Lady.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 4 — Mrs. Herbert Hoover has come to the end of her second year in the White House with a reputation as an able, gracious hostess.

She has embellished the role of First Lady with numerous little gestures of cordiality aside from her strictly official duties, and she consistently has refused to be hedged about with two much ceremony and red tape.

Despite the strain of her many duties, Mrs. Hoover begins her third year in the White House in better health than she had a year ago.

AFTER her first year's social season she retired to the President's mountain camp at Rapidan, Va., for several weeks' sojourn upon advice of her physician. But now she is apparently in buoyant health and spirits. Experience has taught her how to conserve her energy.

She finds time to visit Herbert Hoover, Jr., who is convalescing in Asheville, N. C. Nightly, often after some brilliant social affair, she goes to the nursery on the third floor of the White House for a satisfying look at her three little grandchildren.

She still visits with her old neighbors on S street and on Sunday nights frequently invites them for an informal supper.

She christens battleships as part of her official duties—but she also slips away in her car sometimes for the country drives which she loves.

OCCASIONALLY she accepts invitations to dine out informally. After a luncheon given for her by the senate ladies' luncheon club one of the members remarked: "It was all very informal and we all just enjoyed a good visit with Mrs. Hoover. We did not have any extra decorations."

At the Congressional club luncheon Mrs. Hoover unexpectedly asked the president, Mrs. Porter H. Dale, for permission to address the club.

There was a pleased murmur through the room as the First Lady, dressed in black velvet with white satin collar and cuffs, arose and expressed her thanks to the members for arranging the occasion.

MRS. HOOVER has not lessened her activities for the Girl Scouts since she entered the White House. She has made several trips out of town to attend some of their special affairs. She has gone on camping trips with them and slept overnight in a tent.

She has designed a becoming grey-green uniform which is now worn by the Girl Scouts and has had one made for herself.

She recently had her portrait painted wearing the uniform, and the picture will hang in the headquarters of the New York Girl Scouts.

She also finds time occasionally to drop in at the Girl Scouts' Little House here for a cup of tea. The rock garden back of the house was planned by Mrs. Hoover.

DIES AT KENTON

Mrs. Julia M. Getzinger Passes Away at Home.

KENTON, March 4—Funeral services for Mrs. Julia M. Getzinger will be held Thursday at 9 a. m. in the Immaculate Conception church with Rev. H. J. Schumacher in charge. Burial will be in the St. Mary's cemetery. Mrs. Getzinger died yesterday afternoon.

She was born in Kenton on June 28, 1877, and was a lifelong member of the Immaculate Conception church, the Altar and Purgatorial societies and was financial secretary of the C. L. of C.

Surviving are the husband, Joseph W. Getzinger; the father, Martin Schwartz of Kenton; one sister, Mrs. Flora Maude Shirk of Findlay, and three brothers, George H. Schwartz of Akron, Walter M. Schwartz of Lima and Oliver J. Schwartz of Billingham, Wash.

A tattered American flag was found still floating over the log shack in which Stock Richter, Civil war veteran, lived alone at Centerville, Wis., after his death recently at 91.

overwhelming votes his warnings of fiscal dangers that lay in enactments for liberalization of the bonus loans.

Mr. Hoover leaned heavily from his induction into office upon the aid of extra-constitutional commissions in shaping broad policies of social betterment he deemed essential to national welfare.

A SCORE and more such bodies were constituted during his first 18 months in the White House. Chief among these was the Wickersham commission on law enforcement. Under its urge the prohibition enforcement machine was reorganized and control transferred to the justice department.

The commission's final report on the problem of prohibition itself, however, served to stir new storms of debate and dissension.

Despite a cycle of revolutionary changes among governments in Latin America, unparalleled in scope, a probable product of world depression, President Hoover saw one aspiration of his inauguration day—world peace—bear fruit.

It fell to his lot to proclaim as in force the first universal treaty for world peace, the Kellogg pact. To that he added by his own initiative the London naval pact, rounding out the program of reduction and limitation of sea armaments launched by President Harding.

He moved also to tighten bonds of friendship and understanding between the United States and Latin America.

Towards the close of his second year, Mr. Hoover saw his party majorities in both houses of congress almost whittled away, by Democratic gains in the bye-election.

And just ahead he faced a new congress, the pre-election congress, of such close margins of political division as to make its moods and action unpredictable.

NICHOLS RITES FRIDAY

GALION, March 4—Funeral services for Frank Nichols, who died suddenly Tuesday morning while enroute to work, will be held Friday at 2 p. m. in the Whitridge mortuary, Rev. W. N. Robertson will officate and burial will be made in Fairview cemetery.

Those who complain of a church doing so little, usually can't find any other institution that is doing half as much.

DISTRICT TOURNAMENT DRAWINGS MADE

COLUMBUS NORTH TO FACE HARDING FIVE IN OPENING CLASH

Kirkpatrick-Ashville, Caledonia-Salt Creek, Morral-Groveport Paired.

MARION HARDING drew one of the toughest teams in the central district for the opening game of the tournament Friday afternoon. Columbus North, the winner of the Class A district championship last year and runner-up in the Columbus city league this season will furnish the opposition. The two teams will clash on Edwards gym at Delaware at 3:30 p. m. Friday.

Drawings for the Class B district tourney were also made last night. Kirkpatrick High school, winner of the Marion county class B title will meet Ashville at 8 a. m. Saturday. Morral, runner-up for local honors will clash with Groveport at 2 p. m. and Caledonia, third place team will play Salt Creek at 9 a. m. The tournament is at Westerville.

The district foul shooting tournament for Class B schools will be held in Westerville on March 14 at 4 p. m. Nelson Eltzler of Green Camp is eligible to represent Marion county in the free throw trial, having won the county championship here last Friday with 10 out of a possible 15 goals.

Games in the second round of the class B tourney will be played at 6, 7 and 9 p. m. Saturday.

Oddly enough, Marion Harding draws the same opening opponent this season as last. Columbus North eliminated the local five in the first round last winter after a close battle. Inasmuch as the Capital city five has a strong team this year the Presidents will undoubtedly enter the tournament as the underdog. Should Harding win the first round game with North it will meet the winner of the Columbus Central-Circleville game at 7:30 p. m. Saturday.

WOBBLY INFIELD TO HAMPER WHITE SOX

Bush Starts Second Campaign with Lack of Punch; Pitching Strong.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 4—A wobbly, weak-hitting infield faces Donnie Bush, as he starts his second campaign as foreman of the Chicago White Sox.

Of pitching the Sox have plenty, their catching shapes up well, and they have a trio of slugging outfielders. A punchless infield largely was responsible for the fact the Palo Hose dropped 35 one-run decisions last year, to land in seventh place.

First base is the big question mark. The lone candidate is one Ray Ratcliff, a youngster who thumped the ball for .389 to lead the Southeastern league last season. If Ratcliff comes through a big load will leave Bush's mind. If not, Johnny Watwood, an outfielder, will get the job.

Chalmer Cissell, a jack-of-all trades last year will get the call at second, and Bush hopes his .271 hitting will pick up. Lou Appling, the ex-collegian who finished well last year, will start at short. Willie Kamm, the erstwhile $110,000 beauty looks like a fixture at third.

WESLEYAN TO ENTER

CINCINNATI, O., March 4—Ohio Wesleyan university has signified its intention to enter a full team in the third annual indoor track championships of Cincinnati, at Xavier university field house Saturday night. The meet is under the auspices of the public recreation committee.

SPORTS

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

THE recent announcement of Bill Roush that he does not intend to appear in the lineup of the Epworth Junior baseball team this season affords a good test case for the eligibility rules of the city Sunday school league.

According to a rule adopted last year by the commission no player who competes with a particular Sunday school may transfer his activities in baseball to another Sunday school without first retiring from play for a year. This rule, if enforced by the commission, will cause Roush to be absent from all Sunday school baseball this coming summer.

According to a statement made last Monday by Commission President Norris Crissinger, there is little reason to believe Roush will be permitted to transfer to the Presbyterian team. If he is, a dangerous precedent will be set up by the commission. Were Roush the only player involved it would probably make no difference were his transfer allowed. As it is, however, it looks like the commission would do the right thing to enforce the rules adopted last year concerning transferring of players from one team to another.

Now that Harding has completed competition in the N. C. O. league with little accomplished in the way of games won and lost the Presidents have but one remaining opportunity to chalk up a creditable record for the season. This will be when the Bobycrmen take part in the Central District Class A tournament at Delaware.

Harding has drawn Columbus North for the opening game of the tourney, the same team which opposed the Presidents in the first game of the tournament last season.

Harding's one chance to inject a little color into an otherwise drab year of athletics in the local school will come this week-end. Needless to say, the odds are against them. A team which cannot go through a league such as the North Central can hardly be expected to buck the stiffer competition of the Columbus city league with very much success.

However I live in hope. Harding went to the tournament at Delaware a few years ago with a record equally as poor as this year and battered its way to the finals of the district play. Only after a tough battle did it lose to Columbus South in the last game. Maybe history will repeat itself. Who knows?

Bishop Athletes Turn to Boxing and Wrestling

DELAWARE, March 4—With the basketball season now history, attention of Ohio Wesleyan athletes is being turned to boxing and wrestling tournaments now being conducted on two nights each week in Edwards gym.

The preliminary matches are being staged on Tuesday and Thursday nights. The finals are scheduled to be given at the annual spring intramural sports festival late this month.

Fred C. Mackey, formerly of Galion, is head of the department of intramural athletics sponsoring the tournaments.

Toledo Pennant Hopes Rest on New Infielders

By The Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., March 4—Pennant chances of the Toledo club in the American association chase depends on the quality of the second baseman and shortstop that President Oscar J. Smith has been promised from the major leagues. All other departments of the Mud Hens are practically up to war strength, with the pitching staff standing out as the backbone of the outfit.

Fifteen pitchers have been ordered to report at the training camp at Miami, Fla., on March 10. Of that number seven have won their stripes in the Hickey league. They are Sergeant George Connally, Alex Ferguson, Carl Mays, Jack Scott, Johnny Tate, Elam Van Gilder and Bill Rabb.

Two Counties Plan To Work on Ditch

Rebuilding of a section of the Parker joint county ditch whose banks have fallen in the last few days due to thawing will be started immediately, commissioners of Marion and Wyandot counties decided yesterday following: a meeting in Grand township where the ditch is located.

While the damage done by the slide is small, commissioners decided to clear the ditch immediately in order to avoid possible further damage when the spring rains come.

Will Compete at Westerville

Despite the fact it was beaten by Kirkpatrick in the playoff for the Marion county championship last Friday Morral High school is figured to put up a good defense of Marion county laurels in the Central district Class B tournament at Westerville starting Friday.

Morral went through the regular playing season without being defeated only to see Kirkpatrick come through with a surprise victory in a hard-fought game here last week. Morral, with Newland and Heller two unusually tall players will keep tourney opponents plenty well occupied.

Rookie Talent Likely to Displace Vets in St. Louis

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 4—The St. Louis Browns will present a host of new faces to American league fans this season.

The Brownies haven't much chance of finishing in the first division, but Manager Bill Killifer, with a wealth of youthful talent at his disposal, will be laying the foundation for a strong club in 1932.

The shakeup of the club will be most noticeable in the infield, where rookies will be started at two positions—first base and shortstop. Irving Burns, a Boston Irishman, is slated to replace Lu Blue at the initial sack and Jim Levey, formerly a member of the Quantico Marines, is billed for the shortstop berth.

First reports from training camp at West Palm Beach state that Burns, who batted .356 last season for the Wichita Falls (Tex.) club, is living up to his reputation as a batsman, although of course the pitchers have been doing little more than lob the ball up to the plate as yet.

The Browns believe that Levey, who also played with Wichita Falls last season, will become the club's best shortstop since the days of Johnny Lavan. Levey batted only .289 last season but scouts sent in such glowing reports on his fielding that Ralph Kress lately was broken in at third base and the shortstop berth held open for the rookie this year. Kress looks much better at third base than at shortstop.

Starting the season with two rookie infielders is a bold step, but Manager Killifer has nothing to lose and everything to gain.

It may even come to pass that the Browns will use recruits in three infield positions, for Lin Storti, another Wichita Falls product, is giving a stiff battle for the second base assignment.

The Browns have two other promising recruits from their Wichita Falls farm, Outfielder Larry Bettencourt, once all-American football center at St. Mary's, and Catcher Jack Crouch. They are certain to provide extra batting power, which is what the club needs most.

RANGY YEARLINGS TO AID BUCKEYE TEAM

Six-Foot-Plus Variety Dominates Freshman Court Squad This Year.

By United Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 4—The fruit of the labors of one Floyd Stahl, small but mighty freshman coach at Ohio State university, will be a crop of giants for next basketball season.

Ohio State, whose basketball teams long have been accustomed to defending themselves against western conference players of the 6-foot-plus variety, probably will be the aggressor next season as far as height is concerned. Not only has the Buckeye freshman team plenty of altitude, but it possesses more all-around ability than any tenderfoot group in years.

One player of whom a lot is expected is Bill Hosket of Dayton, who is the best prospect for a center Ohio State has had since "Cookie" Cunningham. Hosket is 6 feet, 4 inches tall, weighs about 220 pounds and can do anything pertaining to basketball with remarkable agility. His height and natural ability should wake him a valuable player.

Another player whose performance has boosted Ohio's court hopes is Ted Rosequist of Cleveland. Rosequist, who is nearly an inch taller than Hosket, plays guard.

Fred Conrad, 6 feet, 4 inches tall, is a regular forward on the freshman team. His home is at Wooster. He teams with Bobby Coburn, another product of Stivers high school, Dayton, whose playing has been flashy. The other guard position on the freshman team has been handed by "Jerry" Fisher of Cleveland.

MATCH WITH CHAMP AWAITS WINNER OF SIKI-EUSTACE BOUT

Abyssinian Black Boy Clamoring for Return Shot at John Pesek.

BY KARL R. McELROY

A MATCH with John Pesek, the kingpin of heavyweights in this section of the country, will await the winner of the Regis Siki-Allan Eustace wrestling battle at the Steam Shovel gym next Tuesday night.

Promoters hold a contract with Pesek for an appearance in the Marion ring in the near future. With a bout with the Tigerman in the foreground, Tuesday night's maingo men will have an added impetus to put out everything possible in order to be the man given a crack at the big boy.

Fast and Clean

The Siki-Eustace bout will be unusual for a heavyweight match. Both men use exceptionally clean tactics and fans are in for a night of really high class wrestling.

Siki is the black threat from Abyssinia who has been making a wonderful impression in the heavyweight ranks in the east and middle west. Siki met Pesek once but lost after a hard battle. Since that time he has been demanding a return engagement. The Mid-West Wrestling association has ruled, however, that he must eliminate some of the other outstanding heavyweights before getting a return match. The Eustace bout here was arranged for this purpose.

First Engagement

It will be the first meeting between Siki and Eustace. Efforts to match them before have failed and it was intimated that the Abyssinian views with no enthusiasm the world-famed body scissors. Eustace is the scissors king of the world. With his powerful legs he has crushed many of the world's leading heavyweights into submission. Among his victims is listed Hans Steinke whom he pinned.

Siki has a pair of wonderfully developed legs himself. However, his main hold in the head lock. In spite of his unusual bulk, 230 pounds and every ounce of it muscle, he is as fast as an airplane on the mat. Every muscle tells a story of potential power.

Matching these two boys brings to bring second outstanding card within two weeks. The Chick-Banaski bout stands as the outstanding but it may lose its position next week.

The advance sale of tickets already is under way at Markert & Lewis.

NOTHING DONE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 4—The first round of the verbal battle between the New York state athletic commission, on the one hand, and King Tut and Billy Petrolle on the other, has ended in a stalemate.

After listening to the protests of both fighters that their battle in Madison Square Garden last Friday night was strictly on the "up and up," the commission still declined to award the money due the warriors and at the same time withheld any official decision on the whole question.

Will Decide Place of Title Fight March 15

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., March 4—Whether Cleveland will be the site of the forthcoming world's heavyweight championship fight between Max Schmelling and young Stribling will be settled, March 15.

Tommy McGinty, Cleveland matchmaker, announced Damon Runyan, promoter of the bout, would come here and the two would confer with George H. Bender, manager of the new municipal stadium.

The fight is scheduled for July 4.

RAILS LEAD STOCK DECLINE

Market Breaks Sharply After Irregular Opening; Bulls' Efforts Useless.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 4—Shrinkage of railway dividends crowded more favorable developments out of speculative visition in Wall street today, and the stock market broke sharply.

Efforts to translate a bullish interpretation of the veto of the Muscle Shoals bill and the imminent adjournment of congress, into a rise in public utility shares, made little headway against the downward trend of the list as a whole.

The mid-week business statistics disclosed mixed trends although the steel trade reviews reported further gains for the 10th consecutive week. Furthermore, the agreement reached by Gandhi and Lord Irwin in India, promising an end to the economic impasse in that country, was described in important banking circles as a development likely to be of profoundly favorable influence upon world trade.

After an irregular opening, the market plunged downward under heavy selling during the morning Losses of 2 to 7 were numerous. Around midday, efforts were made to bid up the utilities, and gains of a point or two were recorded, but retained with difficulty. The market turned dull during the afternoon. A long list of industrials and utilities made extreme losses of 2 to 3 points.

The selling of rails much of which was regarded as professional bear activity, reflected dividend reductions by Rock Island and Lehigh Valley.

"Iron Age" placed steel ingot output at 53 per cent of capacity, against 52 a week previously.

Credit conditions were stationary, with call money steady to firm at 1½ per cent.

BEARS CAUSE GRAIN SLUMP

Moisture Reports Also Have Bad Effect on Chicago Pit Prices.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 4—Rain or snow predicted for most of the United States wheat belt resulted in early lower prices on grains today. Big primary receipts of domestic wheat counted also as a bearish factor, and Liverpool reported pressure of offerings from Australia. Opening ⅝ cents off to ⅝ up, wheat afterward underwent an all around sag. Corn started at ⅝ decline to ¼ advance, and later kept near to the initial range

A slash of 2½ cents a bushel in quotations on Australian cargoes at Liverpool did much to unsettle confidence in the buying side of wheat. Belgium was reported as the only trans-Atlantic country showing any likelihood of purchasing United States gulf wheat at present discounts. The exception in Belgium was ascribed to a boycott there on Russian wheat, making the outlook in Belgium different than elsewhere in Europe.

Primary domestic receipts of wheat were more than double those of a year ago, 1,469,000 bushels, against 1,145,000 in the corresponding day last week. Sales of 200,000 bushels into store in Chicago was also indicative of accumulating stocks with no adequate outlet. Corn primary arrivals also bulked large, totaling 1,278,000 bushels, compared with 741,000 a week ago and 967,000 at this time last year. Oats were easier following corn and wheat. Provision responded to upturns in hog values.

NEWSPAPER STORY OPENS AT PALACE

A hard-boiled managing editor of a big city tabloid newspaper has as his motto, "If it's news, we print it no matter whom it hurts."

He is confronted suddenly with the problem of whether to print a picture of his wife in the arms of the city's leading banker, a business man whose accounts are short and who is about to leave the city, taking the editor's wife with him

Does he print the picture? The answer to this question makes the denouement for "Scandal Sheet," Paramount's picture of newspaper life which stars George Bancroft and which opened yesterday at the Palace for a two-day run.

Kay Francis, whose following seems to increase in each succeeding picture, plays the part of the wife and Bancroft, of course, is the editor The banker is Clive Brook. Lucien Littlefield and Regis Toomey have minor roles

LIQUOR CASE BRIEF FILED BY ATTORNEY

Charges No Evidence Introduced To Prove Trafficking in Intoxicants.

A charge that no evidence was introduced which would tend to prove trafficking in liquor is made in a brief filed by Attorney Theodore E. Ochs in behalf of Frank Nicklose, plaintiff-in-error, against the State of Ohio in common pleas court yesterday

Nicklose was fined $300 by municipal court some time ago on a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, but the case was appealed to common pleas court on grounds that state prohibition officers had no right to enter a private dwelling to conduct a search for liquor.

Officers found one and one-half pints of liquor which the plaintiff-in-error contends was used for medicinal purposes only.

The appeal has not yet been heard by the court.

American and Russian Marriage Ties Least Durable, Survey Shows

By United Press.

BERLIN, March 4—An English marriage is the most durable in the world, while the American variety, next to that of Soviet Russia, holds the international record for brevity, a survey of the Reich statistical bureau showed today.

Divorce figures from all over the world brought forth many interesting sidelights on national matrimonial problems, among them the fact that the fifth to tenth years — not the first hundred—are the hardest, and that "war" marriages have proved the least successful.

The divorce courts of America and Russia grind out their decrees at a rate hardly to be compared with those of other countries, it was revealed

Beginning with the Soviet Union, where the average decree is a mere matter of minutes, the numbers of divorces per year for each 100,000 inhabitans runs about as follows:

Russia, 309.7; United States, 163.3; Austria, 89.6; Japan, 79.1; Switzerland, 67.5; Denmark, 66; Germany, 61.6; and France, despite the legendary fickleness of its citizens in love, only 47. 1.

In England there are only 8.6 divorces for every 100,000 people.

First Measure of Ohio Tax Program Due Soon

Levy on Cigarets and Tobacco Proposed in Special Committee Draft; Bank Deposit Tax Also Considered.

By United Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 6—The first taxation measure to come from the special legislative tax committee probably will be introduced in the general assembly within a week and it would impose a tax on cigarets and tobaccos, it was announced today.

Tentative draft of this measure has been completed by the committee, and it will require only slight amendment before it is ready for presentation.

It is planned to impose a tax of one cent on each 10 cigarets sold and a 10 per cent tax on the retail price of cigars and tobacco. This would produce, it is estimated, $8,000,000 from cigarets and $5,000,000 from cigars and tobacco.

License Fee Cut Proposed

Reduction of the present license fees for retail cigaret dealers from $50 a year to $25 is proposed. The wholesale license would be reduced from $200 to $100. The idea back of this, it was said is to extend the sales possibilities in order to secure greater tax revenue. Annual sales of tobacco and cigarets is estimated by the committee at $50,000,000.

The committee has discussed also the taxation of intangible property, especially of bank deposits. It was suggested that a flat rate of two mills be placed on the daily average of bank deposits, the tax to be assessed at the source and paid in April of each year.

Senator Taft, chairman of the committee believes this tax would be absorbed by the banks on all savings deposits and probably on commercial accounts as well.

Taft Outlines Plan

"They will do this," Taft asserted, "because under any tax system that we may devise bank taxes will be cut to one-fourth of what they now are. They can absorb this tax in the rate they now pay on deposits in savings accounts and not lose any money. Whether they can do the same in commercial accounts is a question."

It was agreed, however, that the bill would permit banks to charge back to customers any amount paid for taxes on their balances if they desire.

Taft also declared that he would oppose any proposition to levy a tax on the monetary value of intangibles but would favor a flat rate of tax on the income from those intangibles.

In setting up machinery for the listing and collection of taxes it was suggested that the real and personal property duplicates be retained as at present and a third duplicate, a classified one, be established; that no distinction would be made between the returns of corporations and individuals; that property should be listed for taxation on Jan. 1 of each year instead of the first Monday in April in order to arrive at a uniform date for the return of all property.

Gassy Stomachs Made Well

Every person who is troubled with gas in the stomach and bowels should get a package of Baalmann's Gas Tablets and see how quickly they will relieve all distressing symptoms.

Sharp pains in the abdomen or about the heart are often due entirely to gas pressure. Sometimes the circulation is restricted causing the hands and feet to grow numb. Usually there is much gurgling or rumbling in the bowels. Many sufferers complain of a gnawing feeling in the stomach, extreme nervousness, heartburn, drowsiness after eating, headaches, dizzy spells or labored breathing.

Baalmann's Gas Tablets taken at meal time not only prevent all bad effects from gas, but they invigorate the weak nerves of the stomach and assist in restoring the whole digestive system to proper working order.

Genuine Baalmann's Gas Tablets—in the yellow package—can be obtained at any good drug store. Price $1 everywhere.

Here Are Rules of Procedure To Guide Persons Who Fall Into Meshes of Law

HOW does it feel to be arrested? Probably everyone has wondered just what would happen should he or she happen to violate the law and be taken to prison.

Practically every rule of procedure that applies to the handling of a person after he or she is arrested is prescribed by law and is the shortest cut to justice the legislature can find. Although through necessity the process of being arrested and tried for a crime or a misdemeanor is not pleasant, it is surprisingly fair and just.

It Works This Way

For example, imagine the case of some one who has been taken into custody for causing a serious accident and injuring a person through reckless driving.

Probably the first thing to happen would be his arrest by a patrolman, probably on the scene of the accident. He would be escorted to police station without any undue commotion if he made no effort to escape or to argue with the patrolman. It is not within the policeman's province to determine a person's guilt or innocence, and argument with a policeman is a poor policy. He is simply doing his duty as he sees it when he makes an arrest.

At the station, the desk sergeant quizzes the prisoner, filling in a blank sheet on the "blotter" showing the prisoner's name, age, address, color and sex, where and when the arrest was made, on whose complaint the arrest was made, and remarks. Another blank space is titled "property removed." In this space, all personal property excepting clothing is listed, and the property is removed from the prisoner. It is placed in a large paper sack and sealed, to be returned to the prisoner when he is freed. The reason for removing property is obvious, as a pocketknife might easily become a tool in an attempted escape.

May Give Bond

In some cases of a less important nature, it is possible to obtain a prisoner's immediate release by posting a bond of either money or property. This is done through the court in which the prisoner is to be tried, which is usually the municipal court here.

As soon after the arrest as possible the prisoner will be formally charged with the offense for which he was arrested and be permitted to make a plea at arraignment. If he pleads guilty, he will be fined or his case otherwise disposed of. In the case of a not guilty plea, a date for hearing is set and the prisoner is allowed to obtain an attorney and prepare for a hearing. At the hearing the prisoner's guilt is determined and he is either set free or punished.

There are many crimes in which the municipal court does not have final jurisdiction but only determines the probable guilt or innocence of the defendant. In these cases, the prisoner is either freed or bound over to the grand jury under bond. The grand jury meets periodically, considers cases to come before it, and either indicts or acquits a prisoner. If indicted, the prisoner goes before the common pleas court for trial.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, March 5

THE planetary influences for this day point to the personal interests as being uppermost among the activities. In any event matters will be intriguing and of peculiar interest, with the energies and faculties keen. It may be wise to be on guard against compromising letters or writings.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by an eventful and intriguing year, with many subtle influences at work. The purely private interests may be emphasized, conducting to sudden change in the environment, and all relations, business and personal. Be careful as to schemes and writings. and Found Wanting

Most people are forever wanting what they haven't got. It's human nature. Women with straight hair want curls. A winterful of black clothes kindles a desire for bright colors. Give a husband spinach and he'll dream of broccoli.

The success of the store business is largely due to this unsettled streak in the human soul. People buy lots of things they don't actually need just because they want something different from what they have.

You, for example. Probably you have a coat and a hat and some underclothes—quite enough to keep you decently clad. But that's not enough. You want a change either to satisfy your vanity or to relieve the monotony. You're always wanting more. Which is all right if you're a Uhler-Phillips' customer. For, as long as you shop at Uhler-Phillips—where every dollar stretches an extra long way, we'll never call you extravagant. We'll just congratulate you on being a normal human being, intelligent enough to remember that

URGE PENSIONS FOR OHIO AGED

Speakers Present Arguments at Session of House Committee.

By United Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 4—An old age pension system for Ohio, which would care for 20,000 indigent persons would not cost the state more than $5,000,000 annually to operate, Abraham Epstien of New York, author and nationally known authority on old age pensions, told members of the house insurance committee late yesterday.

Epstein, principal speaker at the committee hearing on four old age pension bills before the legislature, declared cost of the new system would be far lower proportionately than the present alms house system.

"Under the alms house system, he charged, 60 per cent of the pension cost went for administration, whereas only 5 percent would be required to carry on the administration of an old age scheme.

Estimates Cost

"It is fair to state that for the next year or two, at least, the cost of a pension plan at age 70 in Ohio would not exceed $4,000,000," he said. "For this cost Ohio would provide adequately and in self respect for about four times the present number of inmates in almhouses; at the same time the cost would be less than double the present expenditures."

Others who spoke in behalf of the bills were Michael O. Burns of Hamilton, O., past worthy grand president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles; Thomas J. Donnelly of Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Federation of Labor; Dr. F. M. Witte of Cincinnati, editor of the German Free Press; Joseph Martinek of Cleveland, representing the Bohemian Societies of Ohio; Rev. H. S. Wilson of Dayton, pastor of the First Unitarian church, and Rev. H. S. Bigelow of Cincinnati, former chairman of the Ohio constitutional convention.

Only Three Without Pensions

Martinek pointed out that the only three countries in the world which had not adopted an old age pension system were India, China and the United States.

At the conclusion of the three-hour hearing, it was announced that opponents of the pension proposals would present their arguments next Tuesday morning before the same committee.

SCORES BIG VICTORY OVER RIVALS IN ST. LOUIS TEST

By ROBERT RIPLEY, Himself
Creator of "Believe It or Not"

"Are you smoking the cigarette you like best? Are you SURE? Here's what happened in St. Louis the other day. 1041 smokers sampled the four leading brands, with the names concealed. Then they picked out the one that tasted best.

"Result? It wasn't even close. OLD GOLD, 334; Brand X, 264; Brand Y, 237; Brand Z, 206. I conducted this test and it was fair and square, proving again that OLD GOLDS are made of smoother tobaccos, genuinely easier on your throat."

IREY GETS CONTRACT FOR HIGHWAY WORK

Tully Township Trustees Award Road Construction Job.

Contract for improving the Lyons road northeast of Caledonia has been let my Tully township trustees to Herman Irey of Marion on his bid of $8,899, County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens announced today.

Irey's bid was considerably lower than the $12,443 estimate made when the improvement was planned.

The road is two and one-half miles in length and is to be paved with rolled macadam. Work is to start April 1, according to the contract.

30 CHICKENS, HOG REPORTED STOLEN

Farmers Tell Sheriff of Thefts in Different Parts of County.

Theft of 30 White Wyandot chickens and a 225-pound hog from two Marion county farms was reported to Sheriff Charles C. Fye yesterday.

The chickens were stolen from the farm of Robert Surber on the Agosta road, while the hog was taken from the farm of C. E. Seas on the Cardington road.

The thieves who stole the hog slaughtered it before hauling it away, Seas told the sheriff.

Both thefts occurred Monday night but were not reported until yesterday.

TRADE BETTER, BANK REPORTS

Improvement in Business Sentiment Noted in Fourth District.

By International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., March 4—Further improvement in business sentiment was noted in the Fourth Federal Reserve district during January and early February, the monthly business review of the Federal Reserve bank of Cleveland said today.

Some expansion of a seasonal nature in principal industries continued to the improvement, despite the fact that changes in this period, except in a few instances, were smaller than the average of past years at that time.

A decrease of 5 per cent in the Ohio employment index in January, taken from reports of more than 700 industries, in contrast to an average of 1 per cent decline during the month in the last five years was revealed. The employment indexes, however, at present are not particularly reliable indicators of current operations because of the "stagger systems," the article stated.

Metal Industry Improved

Iron and steel production moved more than seasonally in January and continued to improve in February although it was at a reduced rate so far as mills are concerned. Mills in the southern part of the district were operating at much higher rates in mid-February, due to the demand for tin plate, but Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Youngstown mills were slightly below the average for the country because of the drop in the automotive and pipe demand.

Automobile production which expanded in December contrary to seasonal movement, increased less in January than in the corresponding period of recent years, and shoe production increased seasonally but was still 25 per cent below last year.

THREE MEN HELD FOR GRAND JURY ACTION

Dr. R. H. Finefrock of Prospect One of Trio Bound Over Here.

Three men today are awaiting action of a Marion county grand jury following preliminary hearings in municipal court. One is free on bond, and the other two as yet have not arranged bond for their release.

Dr. R. H. Finefrock of Prospect is free on $200 bond furnished after his preliminary hearing before Judge William R. Martin. Charged with driving while intoxicated, Dr. Finefrock pleaded not guilty, waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury.

The charge was brought against Dr. Finefrock after a Chevrolet coupe he was driving left the road at the end of West Center street on Feb. 10.

John Cowgill, 47, giving his address as Marion, was bound over to the grand jury on $500 bond when he pleaded guilty to a charge of issuing a check without funds on arraignment this morning. Action was brought against Cowgill by S. H. Fetter who charges Cowgill issued a questionable check to him Jan. 27, 1931, for $10.

George Zahn of 461 Avondale avenue, was bound over to the grand jury under $600 bond after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny at arraignment this morning. Zahn was arrested Monday, an hour after he allegedly took a radio from the residence of Mrs. Dona Evans at 294 Tully street.

Neither Zahn or Cowgill had furnished bonds this morning.

Spanish universities have been reopened and most of the students are back at their studies. Another Spanish crisis has become history.

Can Hollywood have undergone a change? Last year's record amid the fairly prominent of the movie world was forty-seven marriages to thirty-seven divorces.

Of course, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, probably realized at the time that he was a bit late in offering his resolution making $100,000,000 available for unemployment, but he may have figured that, as a gesture, it showed where his heart was.

The bureau of investigation of the department of justice in Washington reports that 1,711 crimes were committed in January in the 1,000 cities on which it keeps check against 1,824 in December. It doesn't offer any prediction, however, that reformation is getting in its work on the criminal world.

Cables from India hold out that the indications are that peace there is near at hand and that the civil disobedience campaign will soon be a thing of the past. Maybe so, but ever between the cup and the lip there's many a slip.

Paris assures us that the new pact is not a menace to the United States, affecting Europe only, but it's worth noting that certain changes it necessitates will require the sending of it to this country and Japan for action on it.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith is reported as barring the wet-or-dry issue in the national committee meeting, holding that political issues are up to the convention. There's that old one about the burnt child dreading the fire.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of President Hoover's national business survey conference, reports that "business conditions are getting better," for which the country should be thankful. It would have been somewhat trying had he clung to that old one to the effect that a business revival was "just around the corner."

Away Out Ahead.

Prohibition heads the list of the nation's problems, as viewed by the national council of the National Economic league. Every year the council, by a preferential vote, prepares a list of paramount problems. It is made authoritative by the inclusion of outstanding men in communities all over the United States. The roster in Ohio contains 158 names, among them those of Senator Bulkley, Chief Justice C. T. Marshall, Attorney General Bettman and Harvey Firestone.

Thirty-two problems received 350 votes or more from the 5,000 members of the league. From the classification indicated by grouping close votes, it is possible to draw certain conclusions. Thus, prohibition received 1,871 votes, while administration of justice, a much broader problem, received 1,750. A greater difference exists between administration of justice and disrespect for law, which received 1,514 votes. Economic stabilization stands fourth with 1,434 votes, and law enforcement and crime, both with 1,300-odd votes are fifth and sixth respectively.

Significantly, in view of the senate's inclination to dodge action on it, the World court stands first among problems which are more than domestic in scope—ahead of taxation, which, to the taxpayers, always is a paramount problem. Agriculture, political corruption and the tariff fall close together in the 600-vote group; war debts, government in business and international economic relations are grouped in the 500 classification.

The position of the problem of government in business is particularly interesting, since it is connected so closely with the power issue, which the so-called "Progressives" are so assiduously endeavoring to make a vital political issue, revision of the anti-trust laws, centralization of money and power, state's rights, old-age pensions and insurance all stand low in the list. Railroads, public utilities, relations between capital and labor, motor traffic regulation, Russia, national defense, marriage and divorce and stabilization of the value of money—popular conversational topics—are placed in the group receiving less than 350 votes.

A signal service is done by the preparation of such lists, since they are the most authoritative means available of knowing what problems concern the public most vitally. Prohibition, of course, could be guessed; the others would depend almost entirely on individual interests and attitudes, however.

A similar service might emanate from the preparation of a list in a facetious manner showing what paramount problems interest the public least. It would be a key to public indifference.

Two Years of Hoover.

Two years ago Herbert Hoover was elected President of the United States by a large majority. A nation whose prosperity and high living standards had become proverbial was convinced that Mr. Hoover could preserve its condition.

Today, the aura of 1928-29 prosperity has faded—where, no one can say for certain. But, starting with a decline of stock prices in the fall of 1929, it drifted away somewhere. No greater calamity could have befallen a president.

There is a natural tendency to hold the President responsible for the changes, either maliciously or mistakenly, since it occurred during his administration. Though no single source of informed opinion in the world could honestly say that Mr. Hoover had anything to do with the depression, each could point out with certainty that the public would wreak its displeasure on him in a presidential election. Such is the normal procedure of crowd judgment.

Today is not a time to make election predictions however. It is rather, a fitting occasion to review the first two years of the Hoover administration, and its record. The depression has no proper place in such a review. It was an unforeseen development, growing out of seeds inadvertently sown during many years.

President Hoover, rightfully, can be proud of his success with congress, though political skill is admittedly one of his lesser qualities. He has won administrative control of tariffs and the flexible provisions, for which many presidents have longed in vain. He averted the debenture plan of farm relief, and succeeded in getting the federal farm board, a life-long dream and one of the world's notable attempts to help agriculture. He won a satisfactory compromise on two occasions on methods of handling domestic relief, and upheld vigorously the principle of self-help.

The outstanding achievement of his administrative activities has been consolidation of all veterans' activities under one head. Lesser accomplishments are evident in the wider field of a general strengthening of all administrative service, involving a personnel of more than a million. President Hoover's appointments have been consistently good, despite at least one rebuke prompted by what Alfred E. Smith has called "alley politics."

It is in the field of administration, of course, that Mr. Hoover was expected to be most proficient. His eminence was achieved as a successful planner, variously as engineer, secretary of commerce and food administrator. His management of federal building projects, waterways development and railway coordination has been excellent—as good as was anticipated.

There is another class of accomplishments also, one which resists definition and may be totally incomprehensible to minds incapable of dissociating the President from depression and unemployment. It might be designated broadly as "character and accomplishments."

Each one of many acts falling in this class is wedded irrevocably to Mr. Hoover's own self, the inevitable result of the straight course he has charted and held midway between his personal ideals and the ideals of the political party to which he owes his support.

Though confronted with disunion in that party, though sorely tempted to yield to proponents of paternalism, though forced to fight his way through apparently insuperable opposition whose support he might have enlisted by yielding, President Hoover has preserved his balance—and scarcely has been fired to the point of bitter opposition. It is not that he is afraid to fight, but rather that he realizes more can be done by keeping cool. He has given America a splendid example of strength of mind and ideals. He has reiterated the doctrine of self-help at a time when many Americans seemed about to consign the central government to a policy of public support. He has used the power of his office to give weight to investigations, one of which led to the White House conference on child health and training, a symbol of the President's conception of his office.

President Hoover has done as well as any other man sufficiently prominent to have been elected could have done. In addition, he has distinguished himself from those who carp at him and his policies by manifesting constantly dignified restraint where the others would have indulged in common fighting.

At the half-way mark, the President's capability is evident. All he needs to make him a favorite is a fair, unprejudiced view of what he has accomplished.

John Still, 100, of Prairie Grove, Arkansas, got out his car the other day, motored to Fayetteville, in the same state, and married Mary E. White, seventy-one. Ardent youth will not be denied!

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde tells the senate that it talked too much and held up drought relief. If he should submit the thing to the country, it's a thousand-to-one shot that it would find the senate guilty on both counts of the indictment.

Spurred by the actions of the general assemblies of Arkansas and Idaho in enacting laws to make divorce easy, Nevada is considering the granting of divorce decrees by mail. Haven't those Nevada legislators any compassion whatever for the railroads and the Reno hotel people?

OUT AGAIN—IN AGAIN.

Editorial Opinion.

THAT ANTI-FASCIST AGITATION.

Very properly the secretary of state has refused to receive a deputation of American citizens of Italian extraction who sought to have the Italian ambassador at Washington pronounced persona non grata to the government. He made the suggestion that, if there were any specific charges, they should be submitted in writing. His callers were all anti-Fascist and they object to Signor de Martino as a representative of the Fascist government of Italy. This is clearly not a matter in which the state department should interfere. It has no concern with the domestic politics of a nation with which we are maintaining diplomatic relations. No body of anti-Fascists here can be allowed to disturb them.

The charges against Signor de Martino are vague. To say that he is "concealing the warlike ambitions of Mussolini" means nothing. It could not be expected that he would be out of sympathy with his own government. Furthermore, these warlike ambitions do not, and should not be allowed to, affect our official attitude towards Italy. Unless the Italian government commits some overt act of hostility towards us, we have no ground for remonstrance. The statement that Signor de Martino is trying to Fascitize Italian residents, naturalized or unnaturalized, is equally vague. He has a perfect right to advance the cause of Fascism by any lawful means.

It is a serious matter to ask the recall of the representative of another nation or take any step which might lead to a sundering of diplomatic relations. When Count von Bernstorff was German ambassador here during the World war, he engaged in many activities which should have led the government at Washington to give him his passports, though President Wilson chose to ignore them. It does not appear that Signor de Martino has been accused of any such improprieties as these.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

ABDICATION OF THE STATES.

Only a few senators and representatives in congress have spoken with vigor and conviction against the new maternity bill, the substitute for the lapsed Sheppard-Towner law, which has reached the conference stage. There is no time limit in the measure. Under its terms subsidies to the states are to be granted as a permanent policy.

One opponent of the bill asserted that states were becoming mere geographical units, since they were being shorn of their rights and functions, receiving federal subsidies in return for their surrender and accepting standards not always suited to their local conditions. Yet, strangely enough, the states have preserved a profound silence in respect of the new measure. No protest has come from any of them. No petition has been addressed to congress praying it not to encroach upon the sovereign rights of the states.

How, in these circumstances, can it be contended that the federal government is wresting authority from the states, usurping power in reprehensible indifference to the first principles of the American system of government?

The truth is that the states are apathetic. Proffers of liberal federal grants are sapping their vitality and breaking down their moral and political independence. They have fallen into a sleeping sickness.—Chicago News.

Not Hypocritical.

Beating a prohibition bill, the British house of commons gives evidence that it is to be numbered among the legislative assemblies which vote as they drink.—Boston Transcript.

THE MILK SITUATION.

Editor Star—There are 123 families of the unemployed in Marion with 486 children and sixty families with 184 children in Marion township, a total of 670 children. These families should have at least a gallon of milk weekly for the next eight weeks which can be purchased of a local dairy for approximately $150. If the citizens of Marion will contribute this amount, I will agree to deliver the first week's supply and leave the tickets with the families for the succeeding seven weeks. Each family can get a gallon of milk weekly by presenting its ticket at the dairy.

It will take me from four to six days to deliver the first week's supply.

Now let not the citizens of Marion wait for George to do it. Mail me your check, made payable to "Dairy company," and mark it "For milk for children," and the dairy company furnishing the milk will indorse it, which will be the drawer's receipt for his or her contribution.

The children are under-nourished and under weight. Will you help? The Master said: "Whatsoever ye have done unto the least of these ye have done unto Me."

February 14 I served thirteen families in Marion township with a gallon of milk each and six tickets for six gallons more, each family having from three to ten children. At that time I saw the need of milk for the children as I never saw it before.

The Value of Liver.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Not very long ago we could buy liver in any butcher shop for as low as twenty-five cents a pound. Nowadays you will be lucky if you get it for twice or three times that price.

Just what caused such a big increase in the price of this food? It used to be difficult for the butcher to dispose of this meat and it was the favorite food for animals pets, due to its cheapness.

About ten years ago a novel discovery was published in the medical journals. It was announced that a liver diet is of great assistance in correcting anemic conditions.

Its value in cases of pernicious anemia was outlined. This was significant because heretofore very little by way of treatment could be offered to patients with this disease. Experience has shown that the giving of liver to patients with pernicious anemia has been useful beyond the expectations of the early research workers studying this problem.

In anemia, particularly in what the doctors call pernicious anemia, there is a marked decrease in the number of red cells in the blood. In cases where the red blood cells have been very low in number, they have been multiplied by four or five after the feeding of a diet rich in liver or liver extracts. In many instances, this remarkable change has been brought about within a period of from one to three months.

There have been changes, too, beyond what the blood tests have shown. Not only does the feeding of liver tend to increase the number of red blood cells, but there is a marked change in the general health of the individual. Decided improvement is noted.

The continued use of liver in the diet soon becomes tiresome and even intolerable. On this account, the use of liver extracts has come into vogue. However, it is important to remember that only the extract recommended by your physician is the one to be used in your case if you are afflicted.

Sometimes we become unduly excited over what appears to be an important discovery. But there can be no doubt of the marked advantage in the use of liver as one of the means for dealing with pernicious anemia. The great decrease in the death rate in this disease is shown by the figures of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Liver, especially calf's liver, can be added with advantage to the diet of all individuals. One need not necessarily have anemia to derive benefit from this simple and nutritious food.

Science Influences Thinking.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The influence of science upon the thinking of humanity is one of the notable symptoms of the age. Science always has one inevitable result; it tends to make mankind more intelligent. The finest sort of mental discipline is found in working out some intricate problem which demands solution. This may be a problem in philosophy or ethics, in economics or biometrics, in physics or mathematics. Correct thinking, the exact analysis of the various factors, the reaching of accurate conclusions from reliable assumptions—these constitute the elements in the working out of an intellectual problem.

Science surpasses all other branches of human thought in respect to affording the best type of problems for intellectual discipline. Scientific problems do not exercise the intellect alone. They may call for the display of fantasy, imagination, the picturizing faculty, the ability to see things in perspective, to correlate intricately formed objects located in space. The superiority of the scientific mind resides in the fact that it is removed from all selfish considerations. Prejudice and prepossession, feeling and emotion can not enter into scientific problems. They deal with fact through the relation of fixed laws. These laws are immutable and not subject to the fluctuations dictated by desire, passion, or self-interest.

Science thus sharpens, directs, and trains in the highest degree the intellectual faculty, and other attributes of the mind associated with the play of the intellect. Science is valued in educations as a means of training the human mind to indulge in pure thought and to deal in mental abstractions. The ability to discover and to formulate the laws of phenomena, whether abstract or material, is one of the greatest powers of the human mind.

Science is appreciated by the mass mind for purely utilitarian considerations. The race looks up to the scientist who makes life more convenient or more luxurious. Humanity prizes the man who enables every one to triumph over severe obstacles, whether it be to fly through the air, to travel beneath the surface of the ocean, or to harness, direct and utilize, for material, practical, advantage, great natural powers such as air, water, steam, gas, electricity. The scientist, the inventor, is a benefactor, and is justly so regarded, of the human race.

The scientist himself has a different reason for his valuation of science. The scientist, to be sure, prizes science, in that it enables man to become a conqueror. He overcomes the obstacles of silent, obdurate nature. But science, as well as art, also gives man aims in life higher than those of mere practical living. Science reveals to him higher modes of life. Science gives man the sensation of being godlike in origin. As the race arrives at a deeper comprehension, a profounder grasp of the facts, essences and laws of nature, the nearer does the human race approximate to the divine. Science does not necessarily make a man moral. But it enables him to understand things. And understanding is the foundation of education and self-discipline. — Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Getting the News in 1826.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Thomas Jefferson died July 4, 1826. Cincinnati was then the leading city in the young state, Ohio, and its Liberty Hall and Gazette was the most enterprising newspaper in the state, though it was then only a weekly. It was not until the 15th of the month that this paper acquainted its readers with the fact of the death of this noted man. And even then it was presented as a piece of gossip found floating in the local currents, not in the positive way in which press associations now make such announcements.

The editor of the Gazette had found a letter written from Charlottesville by a friend of the Jefferson family, Peter Minor, to the editor of the American Farmer. The brief letter read: "I give you a line to say Mr. Jefferson passed away today at ten minutes before 1 o'clock. It is an event which has been hourly expected for three or four days past."

The Gazette adds to this letter the following: "Since the above was in type we have from a respectable citizen of this place who arrived yesterday afternoon by steamboat, that the venerable John Adams also departed from this life on July 4. Our informant left the town of Quincy, Massachusetts, on the 5th for the West. The news, however, preceded him, and when he arrived in Baltimore he met the president of the United States, John Quincy Adams, on his way to the late residence of his father. This information comes to us from a source entitled to implicit credit."

Two issues of the Gazette had appeared since the deaths of these two distinguished men, with no intimation of the important news in its columns, and even at this late date it is given hesitatingly and with an explanation as to the source of the information, as though fearing that it might prove to be an unfounded rumor. With the great improvement in means of communication such news now appears in the next editions of the daily papers in the furthermost parts of our greatly extended national domain.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, March 4—It is only after sundown that old Trinity diffuses the benign and mellow grandeur bespeaking its charm. During the day the distracting roar all about detracts. Thousands scurry past Trinity without a passing glance.

But on a clear night with a moon, the church and English type of churchyard surrounding it present a memorable vista. The oldest religious edifice in the city, it was destroyed in a great fire and rebuilt during the revolution.

During the eighteenth century, Trinity's high spire was a city wonder, but today in the lower Broadway canyon is completely dwarfed. Old and aristocratic families retain pews in Trinity, a throw-back to days of the Governor's pew, Bachelor's pew, Housekeepers' pew, etc.

Pew holders today retain their benches as a symbol of honor, a slim percentage of holders actually attend services. Indeed, Trinity is rarely packed, but it carries on with complacence. For Trinity is one of the richest corporations in the world.

In early Dutch days, Trinity's entrance was a town meeting place. Services offered a patina of pomp. English officers in red coats mingled with silkily-dressed wives of the merchants, the latter attended by Negro slaves in bright-colored regalia.

The salary of the rector today is fixed. But in other days both his salary and pay of assistants were any sums they might need. Perhaps no other pulpit offers such metropolitan fame. The choral service is still an attraction.

Boys in white surplices fill the chancel and surprising voices of the operatic and concert stage have been discovered there. But to the stranger the greatest impression of Trinity is the noon-day crowd of giggly office workers lunching on the decaying flat gravestones of the great.

A venerable edifice standing out in contrast among surrounding towers is the City hall. Built at the beginning of the nineteenth century in Louis XVI style, it, too, offers a beautiful tracery in the gathering dusk when its windows fade into a glowing purple. It has been the scene of historic events from the reception of Lafayette to the welcome of Lindbergh. Lincoln's body was on view there. In rotunda galleries are statues of early New York magistrates looking serenely upon sightseers. And one wonders what they would think of their recent and unworthy successors.

Another reminder of revolutionary days is Fraunce's tavern, a name honoring its original owner, Samuel Fraunce, a West Indian mulatto. It is red brick with creamy wooden porticos, and a bewigged doorkeeper stands at its portals. Chief trade is at luncheon. Yorkshire pudding is the piece de resistance.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, March 4—That seventy-three-year-old representative from Colorado, Edwin D. Taylor, who has been elected for twelve consecutive terms to the house as a Democrat, has just completed a task that he set for himself years ago.

Since he was a young man the phrase "Wild and Woolly West" has been one which never failed to irk him. And occasional references in eastern and northern newspapers to the so-called "kaleidoscopic politics" of the West he resents.

He is fond of repeating that old saying: "The timid never started West and the weak died on the way."

Taylor himself went West in '81 as a young school teacher and was the first principal of the high school in that famous old mining town of Leadville, Colorado, when he was only twenty-three years old.

For fifty years he has lived in and loved the West. It was this which prompted him to undertake an exhaustive study of the West, more particularly of those persons who have come to the congress to represent the section.

Under his personal supervision there has been gathered what he thinks might be called "an official roll call of the West." He has assembled in one chronological and alphabetical order the congressional pioneers of the western half of the United States.

Sixteen states are included in the study. The record starts at the time each of the states was admitted to the union. It was necessary for him to start from the treaty with Mexico of Guadalupe Hidalgo, of February 2, 1848, and come on down to February 2, 1931—eighty-three years.

During this time he found that there have been 204 senators from the sixteen states. Of this number, 133 were Republicans, sixty-three were Democrats, four were Populists, and the other four were Independents of various kinds. From these states have come 429 representatives, of which 264 were Republicans, 130 were Democrats, thirteen were Populists and twenty-two were various kinds of Independents.

During their territorial days these states sent to Washington a total of 105 delegates to the house of representatives.

Here are some of the deductions Taylor made from his study:

"The West is more tolerant than the rest of the country of widely different political, religious and other opinions. • • • "

"The people are more independent in their political actions. • • • It is doubtful if more than ten or fifteen per cent of them ever vote a straight ticket. • • • "

"Whether Republicans or Democrats, they are naturally and nearly always progressive in their politics and liberal in their treatment of each other. • • • "

"Every one of the few Democrats in congress today from the sixteen western states is in office by the aid and good will of a large number of Republicans. • • • "

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Saturday, March 4.

Two hours after the sixty-first congress had closed, President Taft issued a call for a special session to pass the Canadian reciprocity bill.

Miss La Verne Grubb and Mr. Vernon E. Carter were married by Dr. D. H. Bailey.

H. E. Donovan, of Columbus, secured the rental of the county fairground for $275.

The top price for hogs in Chicago was $7.85; for beeves, $7; for sheep, $5; for wheat, 89¾; for corn, 49⅞, and for oats, 30⅝.

PROFESSOR EINSTEIN will be interested in his talk with Dr. Crile about the latter's experiments in "artificial production of life, by means of physics and chemistry." Like other scientists, Professor Einstein finds it necessary to explain in some material way the origin of life in the universe. He and they are not satisfied with the account of a supreme being, saying, "Let us make man in our image, after our likeness," as told in the first chapter of Genesis, then making a full grown man out of dust or clay.

Science may name the elements essential to life, and apparently produce life from suitable protoplasm and chemicals. But life of itself is no more important than steam, or capillary attraction. Thought is the only thing of real importance, and a million Criles and Einsteins, plus all the chemicals that ever lived, will not create thought, which is the work of the spirit.

Epworth Boy Scout Troop Celebrates Fourth Year

Dr. Jesse Swank, Former Methodist Pastor Here, Is Guest Speaker; 150 Attend Banquet; Boys Give Demonstration of Work Done in Training.

Scouting occupied the spotlight last night at Epworth M. E. church when Troop No. 3 celebrated its fourth anniversary with a banquet and program. Dr. Jesse Swank of Springfield, a former Epworth pastor, Mrs. Swank, Arthur S. Brooks, scout executive of the Harding area, members of the families, friends, visiting scout masters, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Turley and several members of the Boy Scout council, met to celebrate the anniversary.

One hundred and fifty were seated at the banquet tables. Short talks were given by the scoutmasters and Mr. Brooks brought the banquet to a close. The program which followed was given in the main auditorium of the church.

Work Displayed

The Boy Scout meeting room in the church was decorated with about 40 exhibits of scout handiwork, arranged by the troop. During the program hour, John H. Clark presented the awards for the best handiwork, arranged by the troop. During the program hour, John H. Clark presented the awards for the best handiwork in the exhibit. Awards went to Clark Wideman, first, and George Crotinger, second.

A salute to the flag opened the program. The boys' glee club of Harding High school, guest singers at the afafir, gave three selections during the program, under the direction of T. R. Evans. Frank C. Gegenheimer gave a reading, "Our Flag," which was followed by Scout work illustrating the badge, oath, laws, motto, etc., presented by the 33 boys of the troop.

Robert Mautz the last charter member active in the troop, and nearing Eagle Scout rank, gave an interesting talk on what scouting had done for him and his thoughts of Boy Scout work after years of membership. Dr. C. E. Turley, pastor of Epworth, offered prayer. Mr Brooks gave a talk bringing out new ideas for scout work.

Talks on Scouting

Dr. V. C. Kissel, scoutmaster of Troop No. 3, gave a short history of the troop. Dr. Swank, the guest speaker, gave an address on "Scouting and Keeping Fit." He mentioned the working tools of a Scout as body, mind, will and soul, explaining the power of influence of each. He expressed his admiration for the Scout movement and its opportunities and the service scouting renders to the communities in which it has grown.

Robert Jennings, present area holder of the gold medal for starting fire by friction, gave a demonstration of his skill, producing fire without matches in 18 seconds. The meeting closed with singing "America" by the congregation, the repeating of the scout oath, benediction by Dr. Kissel and taps blown by Mr. Gegenheimer.

FUTURE ISSUE SEEN IN SHOALS BILL VETO

Senate Fails To Override President's Objections to Norris Proposal.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 4—The Norris government operation plan for Muscle Shoals was dead legislation today, but it took its place among issues stored up for future political battles.

The senate late last night failed to override the veto President Hoover had sent it a few hours earlier. A majority, 49, voted against the chief executive, but two thirds was needed to override. The senate's failure made house consideration unnecessary.

Southern Democrats, to whom the Shoals plant is a lively local issue, said the chief executive had violated his campaign pledges by the veto.

Mr. Hoover's veto message said the measure was a square presentation of the government ownership issue, and that he stood by his basic opposition to government in business, competing with private endeavor.

Remedies for power industry abuses, he insisted again, rested in regulation, and in regulation only.

Sixteen Republicans, mostly of the western independent band, joined 32 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite against the veto. Three Democrats and 31 Republicans supported the President.

Harry Jack, Red Bluff, Cal., farmer, planted a castor bean and in five months it had grown to a height of 16 feet with a diameter of four and one-half inches.

in the Republican fold a cleavage that failed to heal.

To the last the senate independents from the northwest, under the leadership of Senator Borah of Idaho and Norris of Nebraska, stood apart from the administration ranks, joining frequently in a coalition with the Democrats. Their final stand was against the Muscle Shoals veto, but they looked forward to a continuation of their policies in the next congress.

High Mark for Spending

Financially, the congress accomplished a peacetime record of spending. Spurred by the demands for relief and agricultural aid, it appropriated in all about ten billion dollars.

The congress had four sessions. It met first on April 15, 1929, at the President's call to consider tariff revision and farm aid. That term ran into the regular session of December, 1929. The latter dragged on until summer, to be followed by a special session of the senate which ratified overwhelmingly the London naval treaty. A brief respite ensued and then the short session.

It met under the shadow of widespread depression which colored its every act and hour of debate. At the outset came a strong pledge of Democratic cooperation to meet the economic situation but this soon went down in a maelstrom of revolt.

ORDERS AUTOPSY ON BODY OF SLAIN GIRL

Court Seeks Information Relative to Murder Trial of Gary Youth.

By The Associated Press.

VALPARAISO, Ind., March 4—While the trial of Virgil Kirkland, charged with the murder of Arlene Draves was adjourned today, interest was transferred to the disinterment of her body at Reynolds, in White county, for a post mortem examination sought by the defense. The body of the girl has lain there for three months beside her mother, who died when Arlene, the youngest of eight children, was scarcely four years old.

Surgeons for the state and defense will seek to determine the condition of certain vital organs, the status of which at the time of death, may have a bearing upon the life of the handsome 20-year-old steel mill worker, only two years ago the football idol of the Horace Mann High school at Gary, Ind. Their findings will be presented in Judge Grant Crumpacker's court when the trial is resumed tomorrow.

Among the four surgeons assigned to the task at the graveside was Joseph Springer, former Cook county (Chicago) coroner's physician. He was retained by the defense.

Meanwhile, the seemingly indifferent or unresponsive Kirkland remained in his cell in the Porter county jail, playing solitaire or reading the newspaper articles about his trial. Burney Maxwell, the sheriff, said Kirkland was calmly adapting himself to jail routine. None but his mother, stepfather, and a brother call upon him.

found guilty on the first count, charging abstraction, and if the jury found it was part of an illegal scheme, the defendant is guilty of misapplying the bank's credit; if the jury found the loan was made contrary to law without authorization of the bank directors, he is guilty of making a false entry in the books; if the jury finds the loan was not a valid loan to Perrill and was entered on the books as such, he is guilty of attempting to deceive a bank examiner.

McLean argued the general issues in the case. He told the jury that Daugherty owed the bank all he could legally owe it and that his wife, Lizzie, owed the institution $42,000. They paid nothing back, he said, adding that the defendant had sanctioned $11,500 in loans to his wife when the bank's reserves were low.

He went into detail as to the John Perrill checks and note. Daugherty was alleged to have abstracted $5,350 from the bank through this transaction. McLean argued that Daugherty, and not Perrill, wanted the money involved. He said the evidence showed that from Dec. 1, 1929, to Jan. 31, 1930 approximately $12,000 went into Daugherty's accounts at the bank loans credited to other persons.

Secretary of State Clarence Brown said that in order to have the referendum placed on the ballot, Ackerman must obtain the signatures of 195,671 voters. This is 10 per cent of those voting for governor at the last election. Ackerman said he expected to obtain at least 300,000 signers.

In order to place the referendum before the voters at the next election—Nov. 3—Ackerman and his supporters must have the petition and signatures before the secretary of state Sept. 3.

The proposal defeated in the house yesterday was made in a resolution of Louis Nippert, Republican of Cincinnati. It was defeated by a vote of 47 to 76 after more than two hours' debate. It proposed submission of prohibition repeal to the voters next November.

The roll call showed the resolution was defeated by 30 votes, as a three-fifths majority, or 77 votes were required for passage. House liberals however, had some solace in the fact that the measure reached a vote. They said previous legislatures in recent years had killed such proposals, often without a committee hearing.

Party Lines Wiped Out

Party lines were wiped out when the roll call started on the Nippert resolution. Minority Leader J. Freer Bittinger, Democrat of Ashland county, voted against the resolution, but 24 members of the Democratic delegation voted for it and 32 against. On the Republican side 23 members cast their ballots for the resolution and 44 against.

Among those voting against the proposal was Representative Edward F. Lauer of Marion county.

Martins Ferry Couple Dead After Liquor Party

By The Associated Press.

MARTINS FERRY, O., March 4—Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Swanberger, both about 42, are dead at Bridgeport, near here, today following what officers described as a two-day liquor party.

Mrs. Swanberger died last night shortly after her husband told her father she was seriously ill from drinking liquor. Swanberger was arrested and taken to jail where he collapsed and died early today. Sam Berghoff, 56, of Wheeling, W. Va., who is alleged to have sold liquor to the Swanbergers, was held in jail pending the coroner's inquest.

HARTFORD, Conn. — Plans are being worked out by state officers here for a medical center operated by Yale University through which all prospective inmates of stage institutions would pass before commitment. Management of the medical center would have charge of and be responsible for the conduct of professional work in all state institutions as well for maintaining the medical care and attendance furnished in state institutions to a maximum point.

Secretary of State Clarence Brown said that in order to have the referendum placed on the ballot, Ackerman must obtain the signatures of 195,671 voters. This is 10 per cent of those voting for governor at the last election. Ackerman said he expected to obtain at least 300,000 signers.

In order to place the referendum before the voters at the next election—Nov. 3—Ackerman and his supporters must have the petition and signatures before the secretary of state Sept. 3.

The proposal defeated in the house yesterday was made in a resolution of Louis Nippert, Republican of Cincinnati. It was defeated by a vote of 47 to 76 after more than two hours' debate. It proposed submission of prohibition repeal to the voters next November.

The roll call showed the resolution was defeated by 30 votes, as a three-fifths majority, or 77 votes were required for passage. House liberals however, had some solace in the fact that the measure reached a vote. They said previous legislatures in recent years had killed such proposals, often without a committee hearing.

Party Lines Wiped Out

Party lines were wiped out when the roll call started on the Nippert resolution. Minority Leader J. Freer Bittinger, Democrat of Ashland county, voted against the resolution, but 24 members of the Democratic delegation voted for it and 32 against. On the Republican side 23 members cast their ballots for the resolution and 44 against.

Among those voting against the proposal was Representative Edward F. Lauer of Marion county.

Martins Ferry Couple Dead After Liquor Party

By The Associated Press.

MARTINS FERRY, O., March 4—Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Swanberger, both about 42, are dead at Bridgeport, near here, today following what officers described as a two-day liquor party.

Mrs. Swanberger died last night shortly after her husband told her father she was seriously ill from drinking liquor. Va., who is alleged to have sold liquor to the Swanbergers, was held in jail pending the coroner's inquest.

HARTFORD, Conn. — Plans are being worked out by state officers here for a medical center operated by Yale University through which all prospective inmates of stage institutions would pass before commitment. Management of the medical center would have charge of and be responsible for the conduct of professional work in all state institutions as well for maintaining the medical care and attendance furnished in state institutions to a maximum point.

Ready To Renew Fight

The truce assures Nationalist participation in the forthcoming second round table conference to be held in India, but Gandhi has said that if the Nationalist demands for Indian autonomy in finances and military matters are not granted by Britain there his followers will begin anew their agitation for separation from the British empire.

Financial and military supervision are the two principal reservations made by Great Britain in an offer of "dominion status with safeguards" given to India by Prime Minister MacDonald at the conclusion of the recent London round table conference, in which the Nationalists refused to participate.

FASHIONABLE PARTY LOOTED BY GUNMEN

Hollywood, Fla., Guests Stripped of Jewels, Money Worth $44,000.

By The Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., March 4—Police combed southeastern Florida today for four masked bandits who looted a dinner party last night of $1,500 in cash and $42,450 in jewelry after lining up the diners with a sub-machine gun and pistols.

The robbery took place in an exclusive apartment house. The bandits escaped in an automobile.

Mrs. E. O. Smith of Detroit, one of the victims, told police she lost two diamond rings valued at $10,000 each, a diamond bracelet valued at $15,000 and a diamond studded brooch valued at $5,000.

Other victims and their reported losses were: Arthur J. Rohde, Detroit, host, a diamond ring valued at $600 and $150 in cash; Frank Black, Miami Beach, $1,000 in cash; John Hennings, Hollywood Country club dancer, $240 cash; Miss Virginia Dimond, Detroit, wrist watch valued at $1,800 and necklace valued at $50; William Marsh Kimball, manager of Hollywood beach hotel, $110 in cash.

The dinner guests told police three of the robbers guarded them with the sub machine gun and pistols while the fourth collected the valuables. A coil of rope, apparently brought by the invaders with the idea of tying their victims, was left behind.

Body of "Ride" Victim Found in Cincinnati

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., March 4—Apparently the victim of a "ride," the body of Alfred McClure, 60, of Cincinnati, was found in Mt. Echo park, near a roadway, overlooking the river early today. He had been shot through the back of his head and three pieces of tape had been pasted over his mouth.

Though a revolver was found nearby, police said it appeared the man had been killed elsewhere and his body and the gun [illegible] a passing automobile.

Second Tragic Death Listed in Vivian Gordon Drama

By The Associated Press.

AUDUBON, N. J., March 4—Police today read in the entries in her diary for the last four days the story of the shame over the life and death of her mother, Vivian Gordon, that led 16-year-old Benita Bischoff to kill herself.

The girl, a high school freshman, was found unconscious in the gas-filled kitchen of her home yesterday by her stepmother, Mrs. Eunice Bischoff. She died a short time later.

In her diary she made four entries, the first on Feb. 28, two days after her mother's body, a knotted cord around her neck, was found in New York. The mother had given information to vice investigators.

Diary Entries

The entries were:

"Feb. 28—What an awful mess mother got herself into; she has been found dead in New York, and they are saying terrible things.

"March 1—Every one is nice to me, especially mother (her stepmother). I guess I'll change my name from Bischoff to Frederica. (Frederica was her middle name)

"March 2—They are saying so many things. It is awful!

"March 3—I just can't live any longer. This has got to be too much for me. I am going to end it all. If any money is coming to me from my mother I wish that it be divided between my grandmother, Herbert Trout and Billy. I am in my right mind, and I am now going to turn on the jets."

Estate Placed at $50,000

Her grandmother is Mrs. Margaret Sanders of Philadelphia. Trout was her schoolboy sweetheart and "Billy" is Billy Walton, her 16-year-old stepsister. Authorities estimated the estate of Vivian Gordon was worth $50,000.

Benita's father, John E. C. Bischoff, is superintendent of the District of Columbia reformatory of Lorton, Va.

STATE CALLS FIVE WITNESSES IN CASE

First Testimony Introduced in Trial of Sheriff Davenport's Slaying.

from Fred Vogel farm. Thursday night around midnight I went to my brother, Elijah Ralls' house where Blanton lived and we both went to the Vogel place, carrying a chicken crate with us. The chicken coop door was closed and locked. We pulled the hasp which held the lock and the door, pulled open the door, and I went in and took the chickens off the roost and handed them to Blanton who put them in the crate. We then took the crate of chickens to a place of hiding near the McComber's chicken house. We then each went to our homes and next morning I went and got the chickens and sold them to McComber. He gave me a check which I cashed at a Kroger store buying some groceries. I then went home.

"On my way home Blanton overtook me and asked for his half of the chicken money, which I gave him. A little later that day Elihu Johnson, marshal of Crestline, came to my house. I believed him to be after me for the burglary of the chickens and I ran out the door. I later learned that officers of the law were trying to arrest me for stealing the chickens and I hid all day.

"Right after dark on Friday, Jan. 23, 1931, Elijah Ralls took Blanton and myself in his car to his home. I told Elija and Blanton that I had run enough and that I was going to defend myself from the officers.

"Blanton took an automatic shotgun which had been in Elijah's downstairs bedroom upstairs where we were to sleep. Elijah gave me some cartridges for a 25-calibre rifle, with which we armed ourselves, and asked me if that was enough ammunition. All three of us planned that if the law (officers of the law) came, we would fight them off. Elijah had a 38 calibre revolver which he said he would use. Blanton and I went upstairs to bed.

"After a while Elijah came up and told us that the officers were at the door. Blanton and I both got out of bed. Blanton took one gun in his hands and I took the other. I stood near the foot of the bed near a corner of the bedroom. Blanton crouched behind the bed. I saw a light coming up the steps. I knew it was an officer. I will not say that I fired my gun, or that I did not fire it.

"I make this statement of my free will, because I want to tell the truth. I was under no fear at the time I gave my oral statement to the prosecutor, or am I under any fear as I sign this statement. No threats of any kind have been made against me, nor has any promise of immunity or reward been given me. I have read this statement and I have had it read to me before I signed it and I understand everything contained in it."

(Signed) "Walter Ralls."

Shot at Walter

Under cross examination Steiger said he saw Walter Ralls at the home of Terrence Ralls that afternoon. He said Ralls ran across a field and ignored orders to stop. Three shots were fired at the fleeing man without effect. He later saw Blanton Ralls at the Tom Ralls home, the testimony continued, and he (Blanton) said he was the one who ran across the field. Steiger, however, maintained that it was Walter [illegible] across the field.

Fifty-one prospective jurors from the venire of 75 names were examined before the jury was obtained.

Trial Date Changed

The date of the trial of Blanton Ralls has been changed by the court until March 9. The former opening date of March 5 is expected to see the present case still in session.

Prosecutor Sears opening statement, which required about 40 minutes, opened with the statement that he expected the law and evidence to be such that there could be only one verdict—that of murder in the first degree without the recommendation of mercy.

Sears then read a section from the statute which states that whoever kills an officer while in the discharge of his duties is guilty of murder in the first degree. He then read the indictment under which the defendant is charged. He went into detail describing the events which he stated would be produced and proven by the evidence of the night of January 22 and 23.

Motions Filed

The two motions filed immediately by Kreiter following the completion of Sears opening statement were argued following the dismissal of the jury to the jury room. Kreiter in arguing his motion objecting to the indictment stated that he "would defy the court to show any place in the indictment where it was stated that Ralls did kill the sheriff." Kreiter read from the court records examples of cases and also produced a section from the statute to prove his point.

Sears in reply stated that under the new criminal code it was not necessary to say that the defendant "killed the sheriff" but that the statement of the facts was sufficient. According to Attorney Kreiter, under the present indictment under which Walter Ralls stands charged, the most severe charge that can be held against him is shooting with intent to kill or assault. The motions were argued until 5 o'clock when the court took them under advisement and adjourned court until Wednesday morning.

Racial, religious, industrial and international prejudices are among the chasms to be bridged in order to gain the fullest measure of living, Rev. Adam told his audience and cited faith, appreciation, understanding and justice as the cables with which to gain this end. He gave as the inspiration of his subject the new International Peace bridge which spans the Niagara river and cited it as a symbol of the invisible bridge spanning the relations of two peoples.

Inventions Aid

Rev. Adam pointed to modern inventions and conveniences as lifting man from the tyranny of isolation but declared that while the world had become a neighborhood it had not become a brotherhood. Racial chasms, religious chasms and the chasms of international relationships he stated were becoming more difficult to bridge and said that in these days of peace there were greater preparations for war than the world had ever seen, except in the World war.

"Every people of the earth have some contribution to make to the culture and harmony of the world" Rev. Adam stated and cited the understanding and appreciation which comes with association and knowing the people of other lands and countries.

The home, the school and the church were the places Rev. Adam said, to begin to bridge the chasms and pointed to a principle of mutuality, understanding and justice as the only basis upon which to build.

Success sometimes seems the less worth while, the nearer you approach it.

FOR ANY CHILD

CHILDREN are happy and carefree by nature, so when they cry for no apparent reason any careful mother worries. No one can always guess just what is wrong but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as baby has a fretful spell, is feverish and cross and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes it is constipation. Just keep Castoria handy and give freely for any of the above conditions; relief will follow promptly.

All through babyhood, Castoria is a mother's standby, and wise mothers do not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Just increase the dose of Castoria and keep the youngster's stomach sweet and the bowels in good order.

To be sure of getting genuine Fletcher's Castoria you should look for this signature: Chas. H. Fletcher

SYNOPSIS

The oddly familiar face of a man who confronts Dr. Charters in his consultation room and addresses him as "Half-hung" Simon stirs the doctor's memories. Charters, a medical graduate in England, a charlatan and finally a gangster in America, has left Spider Schlitz and Chink Dorson in jail there and returned to England with their, as well as his own, shares of the St. Clair diamond haul. Now he is the proprietor of a fashionable nursing home, one of the patients being pretty Marjorie Lauderdell, who protests that the medicine of Dr. MacAdoo, on his staff, is making her worse. She declares that she was not ill until she moved to the home of her uncle, Mr. Lauderdell. Her aunt, whom Charters remembers as Maud, "evil genius" of his American days, hands him a note and tells him that Marjorie's twenty-first birthday is September first.

CHAPTER 3

Asylum and Alibi

WITHIN a couple of seconds of the intruder's question, "Well, and how are things going with Half-hung Simon?" Dr. Charters replied coolly:

"Is it possible that you are addressing me?"

"Possible, and in fact, certain, since there is nobody else in the room," answered the other.

"Then I have no option but to suppose you're mad," observed the doctor coldly, his piercing eyes searching those of the newcomer, and failing to daunt them.

"Right, Simon, first time. Mad as a hatter. And what fitter place, or person, for a dangerous homicidal lunatic to come to."

"How and what did you get in here?" asked Dr. Charters.

"Through that inviting open window, a second ago, Simon."

"How did you get into the grounds?" pursued the doctor.

"Over the 12-foot wall, iron spikes, broken glass and all. By way of the branch of a tree, Slimy Simon—not a rotten branch though," and before the blazing look of hate in the man's eyes as he thrust his cruel face into that of Dr. Charters, the latter almost quailed.

"And so you're mad, are you?" he temporized.

"You've said it, Simon. And you've got to say it again at the right time and in the right place."

"What do you mean? And what do you want?" asked the doctor perfunctorily as he considered the man, the past, and the situation.

"Oh, lots of things. Two for a start—asylum and an alibi."

"Doubtless you're mad, but this is not an asylum."

"Witty Simon! It's going to be an asylum for me, though, and the alibi is going to be both physical and mental."

"I don't know what you're talking about. Do you?"

"Oh, yes, Simon . . . Spider Schlitz has got his."

If the expression of Dr. Charters' inscrutable face changed at all, it was in the direction of greater inscrutability.

"And pray who might Spider Schlitz be?" he asked patiently.

"Oh, come off it, Simon. Don't waste time. Cards down and hands up. Spider Schlitz is, or rather was, the dear old pal of Half-hung Simon, (alias Doc Sellar, alias Limey Doc, alias English Simon, alias the Reverend, alias Soapy Sam Symons. Also the dear old pal of Black Jack, Spud Hooley, Jim Crow, Chink Dorson, Slim Spike Simmons, Chicago May, 'Frisco Fanny, Gunman Gryde, Bohunk Marwitz, the Bad Wop, Dutch Dettinger, Shorty Long, Eddie Guerin, Billy the Kid, and the rest of the boys."

"And Spider Schlitz has got his, has he? . . . And you want an alibi and an asylum?"

"You've grasped it, Simon. You've got to prove that I've been here somewhat longer than I have; and alternatively you've got to prove that, in any case, I'm much too bughouse, far too mad to have known what I was doing, or to be held responsible. A mental alibi in fact."

"And how show the second arise, if the first one is good?" inquired the doctor, humoring the self-declared lunatic.

"Why, now, Simon, suppose that, in spite of your proofs and protestations I'd been seen at Spider Schlitz's place — identifications, footprints, finger-marks — and I was for it—that's where the looney-dope would get me off . . . Get me sent-up instead of strung-up, anyhow; if not acquitted."

"And where should I be, if I swore you were here and it was proved you were there?" asked the doctor.

"Why, wouldn't that only be a further proof of the cunning of the madman? I must have slipped away from here and done it, and got back again, without being missed. If I were seen and they track me down and try to prove it on me, that is."

"And why, exactly, did you do it?" asked the doctor.

"Now you're asking questions, Simmy, and the madman with an ugly leering grin, playfully shook his finger in the doctor's face.

"Did you come straight here from Witherby End?"

"Ah! Got you! . . . How does the innocent Dr. Charters happen to know that Spider Schlitz's place is the Witherby End of the well-known racehorse owner and sportsman, Mr. Theophilus Webb?"

And, with a thoroughly ugly laugh, the madman picked up an ebony ruler and poked the unsmiling doctor in the ribs.

"Who said Mr. Theophilus Webb of Witherby End was Spider Schlitz of the old gang?" the madman repeated.

Slowly nodding his head, Dr. Charters tacitly admitted that the time had come to change his ground. Taking that gentleman's advice, he metaphorically put his cards on the table and his hands up.

"And why did you go after Spider Schlitz?" he asked again.

A twisted, cruel smile was the only reply.

"Well, who are you, anyway?" pursued the doctor.

"Still inquisitive! I'll tell you who I am, all in good time, Simon. Meantime I'll tell you what I am.

"I'm the most valuable and invaluable patient in your nursing home. I'm the man you've got to take the utmost care of. You've got to keep me very happy, keep me from brooding on the past—your past, Soapy! And, above all, you've got to keep me safe from the long arm of the law; for, if they get me, how I shall squeak and squawk and squeal, Simmy! And what a tale I shall have to tell! • • •

"So you'll take the greatest care of me, won't you? And if anybody wants to know, I've been here for a week, in bed. I'm going to bed now, and I think I'll get up tomorrow and let everybody see how dotty—though harmless—I am."

To Be Continued.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

WEDNESDAY and now the week is more than half gone. It was warmer yet when me and Jubilee woke up, and I am going to think about swimming again pretty soon.

When I was going out in the attic to get the rope to let Jubilee down and lit a match to see where it was, I saw the stick with the ends of the wires around it that I had let down through the wall a long time ago and fastened tin cans to in the cellar so that when I would pull the wires up and down the tin cans would bump up against the downstairs floor, and I loosened the wires and pulled them up and down a few times and I could hear the tin cans bumping like someone was coming up the cellar stairs, and then I fastened the wires again and let Jubilee down by his rope and got into my short britches and went down, and everyone was in the kitchen in their night clothes and my grandfather had his pistol and my father was just going to lift the cellar door when I got there, and they all looked scairt. I was scairt. I didn't think they would hear the cans that early. When the door was opened my grandfather hollered for whoever was down there to come out and surrender, but no one came out, so when he had hollered that they better come out before he went down after them, he went down, and he hollered that no one was there, and he was coming up the stair again when someone knocked on the kitchen door and it supprized my father so that he let go of the cellar door and it bumped down on my grandfather's head so hard it must have knocked his eyebrows down amongst his whiskers, and my father lifted the door again right quick, and I opened the kitchen door and Younisa and Maggie and Feeble came in and everyone in their shirttails scattered.

My father laid the door back against a chair and skun out for his room, and whilst I was telling the girls about the noise my grandfather came up the stairs backwards, and he was daring whoever was there to come out and fight like a man. He said when he was almost upstairs someone came up behind him and socked him with a blackjack, whatever that is. He was certainly mad. I snuck off and told my father what my grandfather thought, and told him not to tell him he had dropped the door on him, and he thanked me and gave me a nickel.

I didn't tell the girls about the cans, because you can't trust a woman, and if my father and grandfather ever found out it was me I'd have to run away from home. Some people can't take a joke. My father said he don't believe in haunts while I was feeding my face, but he said if we didn't own the house we would move to some other place. I asted him if he would take the cows along, and he said certainly. So it wouldn't do me any good if we moved. I will be glad when I can take them to pasture again.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

I NODDED an assent to Lillian's query as to the correctness of her account of the early romance between my little kinswoman, Katherine Rickett, and the eminent alienist, Dr. Henry Meredith, in the days when she was Katherine Sennot, student nurse, and he Hal Meredith, interne.

"Take it from me, dearie," Lillian went on, affecting the tone and manner of a shop girl accosting a companion, "that early affair got a stranglehold on our Katrina that she'll never never be able to shake off. Of course her pride enabled her to smother the thing in those early days, and then Time and Healer, and the Other Man, who happened to be Jack, got in their innings. But let me tell you the sequel of that old affair came along at just the psychological moment to rouse what the old novelists would call 'long dormant feelings.' Think of it! While Katherine was smarting under the absence and the cavalier treatment of her husband, Hal Meredith comes back into her life, brilliant, handsome, successful, a very beau ideal of a man, but desperately unhappy with his wife, who had developed a neurosis which later, as you know, became actual insanity. Then followed that third act of a melodrama when Lucia killed herself by poison and left things arranged so that Katherine would be blamed. You were able to thwart that end of it and then in the horror of that time, Hal Meredith broke through the barriers of the years and his promise to that old man, Lucia's father, mercifully dead long before the tragedy, and told Katherine the whole story. Do you mean to tell me that she wasn't swayed by that story of suppressed love and longing then, enhanced by the delicacy of Hal's immediate departure for Europe, and that his unremitting devotion since then isn't wearing down her notions of duty to a husband who apparently doesn't care two pins about her?"

Game for the Fool Killer

"We don't know that last," I said stubbornly.

"All rigth., suppose we don't," Lillian capitulated promptly. "We don't need to know it I'm not raking up all that old story on Katrina's account anyway. I'm simply trying to prove to you that you won't have to count on her leaving you for a long time to come.

"Here are three 'supposes,'" she went on after a pause. "Give 'em an eye or an ear for a minute.

"First, Jack Bickett isn't due back for—how long?"

"Another year, at least," I returned.

"Well! do you think Katherine is hankering to go into a hospital, or take on private patients? Instead of remaining here with you I don't know what your financial arrangements are, but I imagine that counting her permanent home here, she's making about as much as she would at hospital work or private practice."

"That's what I planned," I said quietly.

"I thought so," Lillian nodded. "And you can bet Katherine so loves being with your children—that's the tragedy of her life you know, her thwarted motherhood—to say nothing of her affection for you, that she won't consider going anywhere else as long as her husband is away.

"Suppose, secondly," she tapped the fingers of her right hand upon the knuckles of her left, "that Jack comes back unexpectedly, although that's a mighty far-fetched supposition. I don't believe Katherine will take up life with him again upon the old terms of isolation from all society, and endurance of his moodiness and sternness. She'll be game for the fool killer if she does. Neither you nor I would do it, and I think she'll make your respected 'brother-cousin' put in a few months of proving he's the gentleman he was meant to be instead of the churl into which he's developed since his marriage. And she'll stay right here with you—where else?—during the proving process.

A Year to Work

"Thirdly" — the fingers tapped again, "suppose Jack dies" — don't wince—at my brutality—you're going to hear more—personally I'm not sure that it wouldn't be the best solution for everybody—or suppose he ditches Katherine for that cobra in the camp — it's not beyond the bounds of possibility, you known. Of course either of those possibilities eventually spells Hal Meredith, but you know both of those high-minded people would observe the conventions to the very last syllable. Where else would Katherine go while she was marking time, but right here with you?"

She stopped and looked at me with an air of triumph which I would have found ludicrous had I not known the genuine desire to liberate me from domestic thralldom which was behind her long exposition of the conditions which made it probable that Katherine would be at my right hand for at least a year to come.

Madge's Mental Reservation

"You haven't a big toe, let alone a leg left to stand on," she said. "I consider that I've proved to you that you can turn over much of the care of your children to Katherine as well as the high lights of the household management. She can even keep peace between Katie and your mother-in-law, while you methods in which you trained her, can run the house according to the methods in which you trained her, with one arm in a sling, and the other tied behind her back. Now have I not made out a case?"

"You surely have," I told her, laughing, but with the mental reservation that she had not considered Dicky at all, except to label him as a spoiled boy, needing the salutary discipline of looking after his own comfort without depending upon me. But that question, I knew, was one that she would not press further, and with a consciousness of reprieve from something troubling, I put the whole subject away for future and more leisurely consideration as Jerry Tiger came up the driveway in his flivver, and stopping near the veranda came over to us with his hands filled with letters.
